County fair heads into final week

Something for everyone is offered at the Los Angeles County Fair at Pomona where the world's largest county exposition is headed into its final week of a 17-day run.

A total of 109,173 persons went through the turnstiles Sunday to top the attendance figure of 108,713 for the second Sunday of the 1975 fair.

But attendance for the first 10 days of the exposition — 652,668 — continues to lag behind the attendance figures of 704,034 for the 1975 fair.

The RTD bus strike and the overcast, humid weather have been blamed, in part, for the drop in attendance.

Those who enjoy animals may attend the horse racing program on the Grandstand oval starting at 1 p.m. or the All-Morgan Horse Show at the Carnation Ring at 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Or they may visit the all-day judging of livestock in the four rings.

Daily demonstrations in weaving, stichery, needlepoint, china painting, woodcarving, quilting and oil painting are offered in the Home Arts building.

The free Grandstand show at 8 p.m. has "Flashback 200" on stage and the sensational David Merrifield going through his tricks as he hangs from a trapeze suspended from a helicopter.

Call for interim government

Black African leaders reject plan

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — Presidents of five black African nations have rejected the plan of Rhodesia's white minority rulers to transfer power to the black majority but agreed to confer on establishment of an interim government.

They called Sunday for a British-sponsored conference to determine the procedure under which Rhodesia's whites will yield power to the blacks. Britain replied it would begin talks within 48 hours to set up such a meeting.

In Salisbury, Rhodesia, Prime Minister Ian Smith reacted tersely to the black leaders' demands, saying, "It looks as though the Communists are calling the tune in those parts." He said he would give "a little bit of attention" to the matter but would await reaction from the United States and Britain.

The Rhodesian foreign minister called the demands "totally unreasonable."

The presidents of Zambia, Tanzania, Mozambique, Angola and Botswana turned down the American-British transition plan agreed to last Friday by Smith and "reaffirmed their commitment to the cause of liberation in Zimbabwe (Rhodesia) and the armed struggle" against Smith's regime.

All five leaders, whose approval is considered vital to a successful settlement in Rhodesia, said that Smith's proposal for an interim government divided between blacks and whites would be "tantamount to legalizing colonialist and racist structures of power."

The presidents, at their summit meeting here, said the interim government must be dominated by blacks.

British Foreign Minister Anthony Crosland said in Blackpool, England, that Minister of State Edward Rowlands would fly to Botswana Tuesday and confer with the five presidents. He said that "the parties concerned" must say where the talks will be held and who will attend.

The statement from Lusaka brought no immediate reaction from the Rhodesian government. South African Prime Minister John Vorster, who played a major role in persuading Smith to accept the plan put forward by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, called it "difficult to understand."

The five presidents have been active supporters of the black nationalist drive in Rhodesia.

Optimistic view taken by the U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is taking an optimistic view of the declaration by five black African leaders rejecting some of the terms for yielding power to Rhodesia's black majority but apparently accepting some basic principles for such a transition.

The State Department hailed the Lusaka declaration Sunday, saying "the road to a negotiated solution is now open." U.S. officials described the declaration as an acceptance of the fundamental issues involved in Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's recent shuttle negotiations in southern Africa, namely, the idea that the Smith government will yield power over a two-year period and that a conference will be convened to establish an interim government.

Investigators probe worst of jet wrecks

By The Associated Press

Air Force investigators examined the wreckage of a jet tanker today, trying to find the cause of a fiery crash that left 15 airmen dead and five injured. It was the worst of four plane crashes within six hours that killed a total of 35.

The tanker, used by the Strategic Air Command for air to air refueling, crashed in a rugged marshy area in an isolated section of northern Lower Michigan, 12 miles southwest of Alpena.

An eyewitness, Elmer Liske of Hubbard Lake, said the tanker went down suddenly. "It blew up, and I saw a big ball of fire," Liske said. "And then it exploded several more times."

The crashes Sunday in four states left at least 15 children orphaned — children of the four Johnson & Johnson subsidiaries' officials who died with their wives in a crash at Hot Springs, Va. Three crew members aboard the company-owned jet also were killed.

In Colorado, a lawyer and his wife returning to Denver from a meeting at a summer and ski resort in Steamboat Springs were among six persons killed in the crash of a twin-engine Aztec Piper which slammed into two propane fuel storage tanks and burst into flames.

And three persons died in Illinois when their single-engine aircraft plunged into the Illinois River near Peoria.

Air Force officials said there were five survivors of the crash of the KC135 tanker jet which went down near Alpena, Mich., sometime after 8:30 a.m. Sunday. That's when Wurtsmith Air Force Base last had radar and radio contact with the pilot.

Two majors, nine captains, two lieutenants and two sergeants died.

Three captains and a lieutenant from Kincheloe AFB and an airman 1st class from K.I. Sawyer AFB were admitted to Alpena General Hospital.

Four later were flown to Brooks Medical Center near San Antonio, Tex., for treatment for burns. All were listed in very stable condition today.

The fifth was released from the Alpena hospital early today, and Air Force officials said he would be a member of the accident investigation board.

DEMAND IMMEDIATE TURNOVER

Supporters of Joshua Nkomo faction of the African National Council carry signs during demonstration Sunday demanding immediate turnover of Rhodesia's government to black majority. Nkomo is regarded as most likely to succeed Ian Smith as the country's first black prime minister. Smith is meeting with black leaders to form an interim government.

Victims were attending family party when shot

Two young men were reported in serious condition today suffering from gunshot wounds sustained in one of three shooting incidents in Pomona during the weekend.

One other man was wounded and three suspects were arrested.

The two seriously injured men were shot in the 800 block of W. Commercial Street at 2 o'clock Sunday morning. They were attending a family birthday party when an unidentified youth approached the house and began firing a .22-caliber rifle. The victims, Tony Christopher Alfaro, 23, of Chino, and Fred Arthur Ochoa, 19, of Pomona, were standing on the front lawn when they were hit. They were taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where they underwent surgery and were admitted to the hospital's intensive care unit. No motive for the shooting was offered.

Jack Blevins, 21, of Ontario, was wounded by a shotgun blast outside a garage at 340 Verdugo St. early Sunday in another unexplained shooting. Police reported that someone shot Blevins from a clump of bushes near the garage. Officers said they had been at the place earlier to investigate the report of bottles being thrown at the building. He was taken to County-USC Medical Center for treatment.

Three men were arrested late Saturday night and accused of firing several shots at persons outside 840 W. Commercial St.

The shots were fired from a passing auto, but failed to hit anyone. Police later arrested Luis Alaniz Gonzales, 24, David Phillip Arciniega, 21, and Rudy Raul Garcia, 22, all of Pomona. They were booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder.

Garcia suffered a broken arm when he resisted being searched at Garey Avenue and Phillips Boulevard, the place of the arrests, police said. He was taken to County-USC Medical Center,

Three Chino police officers attacked

More than 15 arrested in DES Hall riot

An attack on three Chino police officers early Sunday at the DES Hall in Chino was reported to be a "definite setup."

More than 15 persons were arrested after the riot erupted about midnight. Injured were Sgt. Harry Toole, reserve Officer John Hudak and reserve Officer Simon Chavez.

The officers were treated for multiple minor injuries at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and later released.

Detective Phil DuBois claimed the attack on the officers was a "definite setup." He explained that officers observing the activities at a wedding reception outside the hall heard someone yell for help.

The officers, including Toole, Hudak and Chavez, entered the hall and were met by a barrage of metal folding chairs thrown by some partygoers.

The three officers were knocked to the ground and jumped on by some of the persons later arrested, said DuBois.

DuBois said that Officer Toole had to be rescued from the crowd by other officers and led to safety.

Chino police fearing more violence called for mutual aid from the California Highway Patrol, the West End sheriffs office, Ontario and Upland police departments.

The officers converging on the hall waited until Capt. Tony Linza attempted to ask all those attending the party to leave peaceably.

DuBois said Linza called in the other officers when numerous fights broke out inside the hall.

Within minutes police officers moved into the hall and forced everyone outside and ordered them to leave the premises.

When the officers at the scene began reporting being barraged by rocks and bottles, the gathering in the parking lot outside of the hall was declared an unlawful assembly and officers began moving in and making arrests.

DuBois said that police believe the entire incident was a setup to bring in officers to the otherwise peaceful wedding reception.

He said when officers were first called by someone inside shortly after midnight they reported finding no problems.

The second call brought the officers inside where they were met by the flying metal chairs and injured.

Arrested by Chino and Ontario police in the riot were:

Diane P. Suarez, 18, 2457 Riverside Dr., Chino, accused of assault on a police officer, rioting and resisting an officer;

Yolanda Caro, 21, 5155 Canoga St., Montclair, accused of rioting, and assault on a peace officer;

Debra Ramirez, 18, 13180 Fifth St., Chino, accused of assault on a peace officer, rioting and resisting arrest;

Marlyn Guajrdo, 21, 4176 Sierra Vista, Chino, accused of assault on a peace officer, rioting and resisting arrest;

Albert Guajrdo Jr., 23, 4176 Sierra Vista, Chino, accused of resisting arrest, rioting, and assault on a peace officer;

Ernesto Miguel Garcia, 23, 12673 Ross St., Chino, accused of rioting, resisting arrest and assault on peace officers;

Joseph Z. Rodriguez, 19, 13524 Third St., Chino, accused of rioting, resisting arrest and assault on a peace officer;

Robert M. Ceja, 19, 13166 13th St., Chino, accused of assault on a peace officer;

Raymond S. Porter, 19, 13017 Carrillo Ave., Chino, accused of rioting, resisting arrest and assault on a peace officer;

Alberto A. Rodriguez, 26, 4870 Granada Court, Chino, accused of rioting, resisting arrest and assault on a peace officer;

Bobby Eugene Thompson, 45, 13123 14th St., Chino, accused of rioting, resisting arrest, assault on a peace officer;

Angel M. Gonzalez, 19, 4947 G. St., Chino, accused of assault on a peace officer and rioting;

Johnny G. Esparza, 19, 13257 Fourth St., Chino, accused of assault on a peace officer and rioting;

Joe Ray Gonzalez, 19, 13458 Fourth St., Chino, accused of assault on a peace officer;

Danny Velerde, 24, 12574 Magnolia St., Chino, accused of assault on a peace officer and rioting.

Others were arrested and released pending further investigation.

Police said more arrests are expected.

CTA endorses Sen. Tunney

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The 150,000-member California Teachers Association has endorsed Democratic Sen. John Tunney in his bid for a second term.

CTA President Stephen H. Edwards Jr. said Sunday the group also voted to support Democratic challenger Jimmy Carter for president. He said the endorsements were based on the needs of education and not on party affiliations.

Basque strike idles workers

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain (AP) — A general strike idled more than 400,000 people in Spain's restive Basque region today as police prepared for a wave of antigovernment demonstrations to protest the executions one year ago of five leftist guerrillas.

Following raid of hotel

Palestinian guerrillas hanged

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — The Syrian government hanged three pro-Palestinian guerrillas at dawn today in swift retribution for a bloody raid on a Damascus hotel just 24 hours earlier.

A fourth guerrilla and four hostages were killed and 34 hostages were wounded in a seven-hour battle for the Semiramis Hotel in the most daring Palestinian attack yet in Syria.

The three surviving terrorists were hanged in a public square facing the luxury hotel. Their bodies, clad only in white tunics, were left dangling in nooses for hours as thousands of Syrians pressed around the gallows and climbed to balconies and rooftops to see the victims.

The guerrillas called themselves the "Black June" group and apparently were protesting Syria's military intervention that began last June in the Lebanese civil war. More than 12,000 Syrian troops entered Lebanon to enforce a ceasefire, but they eventually joined with Lebanese Christian militiamen fighting the Palestinians and their leftist Moslem allies.

Before they were executed, the three went on Syrian state television and said they belonged to Al Fatah, the biggest Palestinian guerrilla group. They also said they had been trained in Iraq, which has supported radical Arab organizations

But in Beirut, a spokesman for the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO), the Palestinian umbrella group headed by Yasir Arafat, denied that any PLO members were responsible. Arafat also heads Al Fatah, which is considered to be less radical than some Palestinian guerrilla units.

State Republians more optimistic of victory

ANAHEIM (AP) — California Republicans — encouraged by what they consider blunders by Democrat Jimmy Carter — are acting for the first time like they believe they can win on Nov. 2.

The optimism over the weekend at the California Repudlican convention stemmed from Carter's widely criticized Playboy magazine interview, in which he admitted to thoughts of lust, and from the apparent reconciliation between the supporters of former Gov. Ronald Reagan and President Ford.

"If the election were held today, we'd lose. But we're gaining," Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger, California's top Republican official, said in an address Sunday.

"Another person who is helping is Gov. Carter," Younger said. "If he keeps talking — and he must — we keep gaining."

But Younger predicted that whoever wins, the battle for California's 45 presidential electors will be the closest since 1960, when Republican Richard Nixon took it from John F. Kennedy by a margin of 35,623 votes, a fraction of one per cent.

Younger, who was Ford's California co-chairman in the primary, also said he doesn't think Ford can retain the presidency without winning California.

"I firmly believe California is the key state, and I predict that the winner will have less than 51 per cent and the loser will have more than 49 per cent," he said.

Younger and other Ford campaign leaders received a warm welcome from a crowd dominated by supporters of Reagan's unsuccessful campaign.

Numerous Reagan supporters made similar pleas to unify behind Ford, and leaders of both camps proclaimed the reunification process a success.

Mike Curb, a cochairman of the campaign which won twothirds of the California vote for Reagan in the primary, said all 58 of Reagan's county chairmen except the one from Yuba County are now county chairmen or cochairmen in the Ford campaign.

Curb said one factor drawing Reagan backers to Ford is that they are beginning to gain hope that Ford, although still the underdog in voter preference polls, has a chance of winning.

But there were also signs at the convention — the first since the primary and national convention — that all of the intraparty battles are not over.

About a quarter of the delegates defiantly wore "Hang Haerle" buttons which were decorated with a hoose. These were a reminder that state GOP chairman Paul Haerle's open and sometimes abrasive support of Ford still hasn't been forgiven or forgotten by Reagan backers.

But a plan to recall Haerle from office fizzled, and he received a cool-but-polite reception.

A few delegates also wore "T is is Still Reagan County" buttons. Several of those delegates said they expect to vote for Ford anyway, but they probably would not work for his campaign.

Other diehard Reagan backers submitted two resolutions criticizing Ford's foreign policy. But both were sidetracked by other Reagan loyalists and did not reach the floor.

On Saturday, former Treasury Secretary John Connally told the convention there is "a high degree of optimism" for a Ford victory, especially since Carter's Playboy interview.

"I could go through the Bible belt of the South, and I could change a few votes with it," Connally said of the Playboy interview.

Connally also criticized Congress for reducing the statute of limitations from five to three years on prosecutions for illegal campaign contributions.

"The Congress of the United States by statute granted itself a pardon for any misdeeds they might have done or any illegal contributions they might have received," Connally said.

Patty plays a new role as witness

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Patricia Hearst — kidnap victim, fugitive, then sentenced bank robber — will assume a new role today as a grand jury witness against former companions.

Miss Heart's attorney, F. Lee Bailey, says she will testify against self-avowed Symbionese Liberation Army members William and Emily Harris before an Alameda County grand jury investigating her Feb. 4, 1974 kidnaping by the SLA.

The 22-year-old publishing heiress was sentenced only Friday to seven years in prison for a bank robbery conviction. And her attorneys said in their noktice of appeal that "imprisonment of the defendant would result in a substantial loss of effectiveness of the defendant in providing testimony in ancillary criminal proceedings."

Still, Miss Hearst would be the star witness in the secret proceedings here. Duri.. her bank robbery trial earlier this year, she accused the Harrises of her abduction and denied that she willingly joined them during a 19-month journey through the terrorist underground.

The Harrises were arraigned last Thursday in Berkeley on a 10-iount complaint charging them with the kidnaping. They pleaded not guilty to the complaint, but the district attorney is seeking a formal indictment.

On the kidnaping night, a women appeared at the door of the Berkeley apartment Miss Hearst shared with her thenfiance, Steven Weed, and asked to use the telephone. Police say two men then burst into the apartment with rifles, beat up Weed, then dragged the kicking and screaming Miss Hearst out to a getaway car.

Bailey and U.S. Attorney James L. Browning Jr. both have said Miss Hearst has been cooperating with federal and local investigators looking into crimes which she may have witnessed while underground.

Americans jailed in Mexico wait for trade okay

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tension is mounting for friends and relatives of Americans jailed in Mexico for drug violations as they anxiously await word whether the government will begin releasing them on parole.

About 40 relatives of Americans behind bars in Mexico and several former Mexican prisoners gathered in Los Angeles over the weekend to talk to two State Department representatives who flew from Washington, D. C., to hear their complaints and answer questions.

But the tenor of the talks was much different from that of the outrage vocalized in such meetings in recent years. While fear and anxiety still were evident, the friends and relatives advocated a "walk easy" policy, fearing that renewed complaints aimed at the Mexican government might jeopardize chances that some Americans may soon be sent home for the first time in six years.

"Anything that makes waves now is out of the question," said a retired U. S. Navy commander, whose 27-year-old daughter has spent the last three years in a Mexico prison for cocaine possession, and since has become pregnant.

"As far as I'm concerned, it's two years too late to do any good with stories about the torture in Mexico jails or everything that goes with it. Things are changing fast now and we have to be quiet and wait.

"If we can do that, my daughter could be home in February. But if the Mexican government doesn't go ahead with granting parole, I'll tell you (the press) everything you want to know."

Comments of the Navy commander, who wished that his name not be used were representative of many of the Americans who gathered to discuss the fate of their loved ones behind bars in Mexico.

Many of them said they were certain that the Mexican government has signed into law a parole program for drug offenders, but said an announcement will not be made until the government is prepared to put the law into immediate effect.

The State Department said it had not heard of such a law being signed in Mexico. However, one high-ranking State Department official said announcement and enactment of such a law is imminent and could be implimented to bring some of the 600 American prisoners in Mexican jails home early next year.

James E. Kiley, acting director of the State Department special counsular services, which communicates with Americans in foreign prisons, said both American and Mexican officials have been perlexed over how to deal with oreign prisoners who are unable to speak the country's language and are alien to the country's laws and customs.

"A lot of the prisoners in Mexico don't really even know what the charges are against them, because they can't read or speak Spanish," Kiley said.

"And it's a bit tough on foreigners who find themselves in jail in this country sometimes. The United States often has problems gettering smaller, more remote law enforcement agencies to cooperate in notifying us whenever foreign national are arrested. And of course the same thing happens in other countries, including Mexico."

Kiley said some prisoners groups attempting to persuade the Mexican government to go easier on Americans in Mexico jails forget they are in jail for violations that require punishment.

"A prison is a prison," said Kiley. "It's not supposed to be fun."

While optimistic that Mexico may soon reinstitute parole for drug violators, which was suspended in 1971 Kiley said the likelihood of a prisoner exchange between the United States and Mexico is not certain.

Probe for Mars life continues

New sample of dirt may answer many questions

PASADENA (AP) — The scientists watching Mars say that if a tiny laboratory aboard Viking 2 turns up some organic chemistry in a new sample of dirt, they would be close to a conclusion that there is some kind of life on the planet.

A spokesman said Sunday that analysis of the soil should be carried out Tuesday and results signaled to Earth Wednesday. The new test is aimed at confirming or dispelling earlier test results that seemed to indicate some sort of biological activity.

This test, performed in what's known as a gas chromatograph mass spectrometer, is designed to sniff out the carbon-based molecules, or organics, essential to life as Earthlings know it. The little laboratory takes a reading of the amounts and types of gases released from the soil when heated.

"We should be able to tell quickly if there is any organic material," the spokesman said.

A new sample of Martian soil was scooped up Saturday by the lander's robot arm from what appears to be a dried up stream bed nicknamed the Bonneville Flats.

Three previous readings — two from Viking 1 and one from Viking 2 — contained information about reactions that at least mimicked life forms. But scientists said the search for signs of organic matter would have to be completed before they could start forming conclusions.

Meanwhile, controllers at Jet Propulsion Laboratory pronounced themselves pleased with communications tests required before the Viking 1 orbiter can take over the relay duties of the second orbiter. The course of Viking 2's orbiter will be altered Thursday so that it can go on a picture-taking expedition over the Martan north pole.

Reagan was offered V.P. post in 1968

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, who came close to denying President Ford the Republican presidential nomination last month, says he was offered the vice presidency in 1968.

"I was approached by someone at that time who was authorized to make that proposal," Reagan told reporters Sunday.

He refused to name the courier bearing the offer, presumably from Richard Nixon, who was the party's successful candidate for president that year.

Reagan said he declined the No. 2 post because he wanted to maintain his "political independence."

The former governor disclosed the offer during a question-and-answer session following a speech to the annual convention of the Foodland International Corp.

"I was offered the job in 1968 but respectfully turned it down," he said. He later told reporters that the offer was made by someone he believed had the authority to make such an offer.

Reagan also repeated earlier statements that he had not been offered the vice presidency by Ford at the GOP convention in Kansas City. He said he would have turned it down, anyway.

The former contender, who plans to resume his newspaper columns and radio political broadcasts shortly, also suggested that the format be changed in future debates between Ford and Democratic challenger Jimmy Carter.

He said last week's initial debate at Philadelphia would have been more effective if the two candidates had been able to rebut each other's statements without the intervention of questioners.

He said the present format "looks to me like they're holding separate news conferences."

The next debate will be Oct. 6 in San Francisco.

Dole winds up SoCal campaign

Only RTD directors' vote needed to end bus strike

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Today's vote by Rapid Transit District directors on a contract ratified by striking mechanics and maintenance workers is the ony remaining hurdle before an end to the walkout that has idled buses for 35 days.

If the directors approve the contract, the buses could be on the streets again by Wednesday.

The mechanics voted reluctant approval of a three-year contract that provides them with a total 19 per cent increase in wages and fringe benefits but also drops pay for future yard helpers.

The contract terms provide that mechanics will make an hourly salary of $9.22 by May 1979 plus cost of living increases. They were making $8.03 before the strike.

Currently employed yard workers will get a 19 per cent hike, too, but in the future, persons hired to clean and fuel buses will make only $4.25 or $5, whichever figure is chosen by an impartial arbitrator. The lower figure is that insisted upon by the RTD; the higher demanded by the union. The yard workers were paid $6.99 before the strike.

The vote was 387 to 257 to ratify the contract and many mechanics and maintenance workers represented by the Amalgamated Transit Union voiced displeasure about the terms.

"How can anybody take a job which, if management gets its way, will be paying $5 an hour three years from now?" protested one union member. "That is plain exploitation. You cannot support a family on that kind of money."

Union leaders had refused to make a recommendation to their membership before the vote. ATU head Jerome Long said he and the negotiating committee thought the contract was "a bad one which we could not recommend for acceptance by our members."

"We want you to tell us what to do next," Long said. "If you want to continue this strike, we will fight for improvements in the contract," he told the workers before the vote. "But let me tell you now that it could take 30 days or more before there is any change, and absolutely no guarantee that even then we would have a better agreement than we have now."

Last week the district's 5,100 bus drivers accepted a pact that gives them a 22 per cent wage and benefits increase over three years. But they couldn't go back to their buses until the vehicles were readied by the then still striking mechanics.

The strike, which began Aug. 23, has compelled about 760,000 commuters to seek other transportation. Highway officials estimated the increased traffic flow on freeways to be about 20 per cent during the first week of the stoppage.

The additional traffic was accompanied by a greater than usual number of fender bending accidents.

Kidnaping foiled

Police chief saves Jacksonville woman

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — After four days of helplessness — bound, gagged and blindfolded in dense woodland — Sheri Linda Jaffa, the kidnaped wife of a wealthy land developer, wasn't sure she could trust her rescuers.

Even as Jacksonville Police Chief Matt Touchton worked with knife and scissors to cut her bound wrists early Sunday, Mrs. Jaffa demanded to see his badge. The men who abducted her last Wednesday had been dressed as policemen.

But the rescue was real, and her husband, Richard, was soon at her side.

"I can't recall what she said when we first saw each other. The big thing is seeing. We kissed and it was the greatest kiss we ever had," her husband said.

Jack McWilliams, 39, the brother of Jaffa's business partner in a Jacksonville contracting business, was charged with the kidnaping and held under $750,000 bond.

He was arrested in jail, where he was serving a weekends-only jail sentence imposed in another case.

Investigators said Mrs. Jaffa's rescue in a wooded area came after McWilliams' girl friend, Edith Burton, 22, broke down under questioning at the jail in Macclenny, 30 miles west of Jacksonville.

"She drew us a map to lead us to the spot but I took her in my car and made her show us," Asst. State Atty. Wayne Ellis said.

Mrs. Burton, who told police she helped in the abduction, hid under a cover in the back seat of the car because she didn't want to see Mrs. Jaffa again, Ellis said.

"We called out ... heard her groan and found her," Ellis said. It was just a mile from her home.

Mrs. Jaffa, 35, was hospitalized for exposure and abrasions but was reported in good condition and high spirits today.

"She never lost faith she would be rescued," her husband said.

After Mrs. Burton learned the woman was alive, "she said, 'Thank God. I hope I've done the right thing,'" Ellis said.

Rescuers said Mrs. Jaffa was badly bitten by mosquitoes and scraped on the back and head from trying to work herself loose from the post to which she was tied, which was similar to a railroad tie and six-feet tall. Her bonds were nailed to the post.

"She wanted to know if her husband and children were all right," Touchton said. "She was in excellent condition for the situation. She had been exposed to rain, heat, cool nights and the tape over her eyes and mouth which naturally makes the skin sore."

Jaffa said his wife will not meet with reporters to discuss her ordeal.

"The most important thing is to get life back to normal," Jaffa said. "She is already discussing a possible European vacation."

After the kidnap, Jaffa received a $200,000 ransom demand. He got $50,000 together, and a trail of notes directed him to leave the money at a spot in the Ocala National Forest.

The money was never picked up, and when the kidnapers made no further contact, Jaffa and his two children made a televised appeal for Mrs. Jaffa's release.

FBI agent Arthur Nehrbass said the accused man, a native of Lumpkin, Ga., is the brother of Aubrey E. McWilliams, a partner with Jaffa in Spectra Builders.

"Aubrey McWilliams ... indicated that his brother ... was a convicted felon and in his opinion, crafty, intelligent and capable of commiting a crime like this," Nehrbass said in an affidavit.

Nehrbass said that Jack McWilliams had been a prime suspect since the day after the kidnaping.

He and Mrs. Burton had been living together in Ocala, but McWilliams had to spend each weekend in jail at Macclenny as a result of his guilty plea in Los Angeles last January to a charge of fraud by wire in a $150,000 swindle, the agent said.

During McWilliams' arraignment Sunday, officials said they had questioned him on Thursday and Saturday, but he provided no information. They said he then took a handwriting test in which he spelled the world canal as "canel." The same misspelling occurred in several of the handwritten notes, officials said.

Bizarre family death leap from N.Y. apartment baffles policemen

NEW YORK (AP) — Police admitted today they are still baffled as to why a Chinese couple and their daughter plunged from a window of their fourth-floor apartment while about $74,000 in cash was burning in a bucket in the apartment.

Ark On Leo, 76, a retired laundryman, and his wife, Yuk Lin Leo, 67, died in the fall. Their daughter, Fe Hong Leo, 44, was in critical condition and still unconscious today at Elmhurst Hospital.

Police said another $24,000 in cash was found in the apartment unburned.

One police officer theorized the family might have been carrying out a religious rite in which the money was burned "as a way of making sure you get into heaven."

But fire officials noted that another window of the apartment led to a fire escape, and said the trio might have been fleeing the smoke from the burning money and gone out the wrong window.

Police said firemen were first at the scene of the tragedy in the Sunnyside section of Queens after someone saw smoke coming from the Leos' apartment Sunday morning.

The fire in the pail was quickly put out with little damage to the apartment.

Meanwhile, a neighbor spotted the bodies. The daughter was rushed to the hospital, where she underwent surgery for a brain injury.

One police officer ruled out foul play.

Ford campaign in South ebbs, foe stumps in West

By JAMES H. RUBIN
Associated Press Writer

President Ford is wrapping up a Southern campaign swing today, stressing conservative themes, while Democratic candidate Jimmy Carter continues to carry his attack on Republican policies to the Far West.

Carter, starting his campaigning today in Portland, Ore., said in remarks prepared for a group of Northwest labor leaders that new figures on poverty in America underscore an "indictment of economic mismanagement" by the Ford Aministration..

The U.S. Census Bureau released statistics Saturday which showed there are 2.5 million Americans below the official poverty line of $5,500 in annual income. The 10.7 per cent increase over last year is the largest jump in the 17 years the bureau has kept records.

Carter said it "means that we are on our way to creating a different kind of Other America, a class that has been called the New Poor."

Ford, who was in Miami today, said in a speech prepared for a Conference of the National Association of Chiefs of Police that he intends, if re-elected, to "stamp out the threat of political terrorism."

He said in the first 100 days of his next administraion he would give top priority to federal anticrime legislation. Ford charged that "Congress has done nothing" about a series of anticrime proposals he has submitted.

Carter told audiences in California Sunday that the GOP was to blame for spiraling property taxes burdening homeowners. He proposed to bring property tax relief through revenue-sharing and federal assumption of local welfare costs.

Ford campaigned Sunday along the Mississippi Gulf Coast and, in effect, told voters he was closer to the South ideologically than Carter, its native son.

The President, who was greeted by some conservative Democratic officials along the way, accused Carter of favoring excessive spending for domestic social programs while advocating "disastrous" cuts in defense spending.

Meanwhile, vice presidential candidate Bob Dole, who is doing most of the legwork for the GOP ticket, is in Illinois, attempting to shore up support in farm areas where it has reportedly been wavering.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, his Democratic rival, said he understood the seriousness of unemployment when he spoke to those who were out of work. In a Baptist church in Baltimore, he told the black congregation that children of families who are deprived of a decent livelihood will go looking for a way "to make it ... in the streets."

Off the campaign's center stage, attention focused on an investigation into fund raising in Ford's home state of Michigan.

Philip Buchen, special counsel to Ford, said the FBI had thoroughly examined in 1973 the same records now under study by Watergate special prosecutor Charles Ruff.

Palestinians slip Israeli defense net

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Authorities were trying to determine today how five Palestinians slipped through one of the tightest security nets in the world and landed their speedboat at a crowded Tel Aviv beach.

The Palestinians reported that they left Egypt to escape conscription into a force fighting in the Lebanese civil war, according to an Israeli military statement.

As they approached the beach in broad daylight Saturday, they waved to Israelis on pleasure boats, then disembarked in shallow water carrying suitcases and greeting surprised bathers by handing out cigarettes.

By the time police arrived and took the five into custody, many bathers had raided the boat's provisions for souvenirs.

British pound hits new low

LONDON (AP) — The British pound fell to a new all-time low against the dollar and other leading world currencies at the start of foreign exchange trading today.

At midmorning, the pound was quoted at 1.6900 dollars, compared with Friday night's closing of $1.7063.

Terrorist hangings stir fears of Syrian offensive

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The public hanging of three pro-Palestinian terrorists in Syria today raised fears among Lebanese leftists of a Syrian offensive to crush Palestinian guerrilla units operating here.

There was no immediate upsurge in the fighting, but hospitals estimated that 60 persons were killed and 80 were wounded in overnight fighting in Lebanon's civil war.

The government of Syrian President Hafez Assad declared that the four-man terrorist squad that seized the Semiramis Hotel in Damascus Sunday belonged to Al Fatah, the largest Palestinian guerrilla group, headed by Yasir Arafat.

During a seven-hour siege of the hotel by Syrian security forces, one of the terrorists and four hostages were killed and 34 hostages were wounded. The three captured guerrillas were hanged in front of the hotel.

Syria sent more than 12,000 soldiers and 500 tanks into Lebanon last June to attempt to enforce a cease-fire. Their efforts failed, and the Syrians subsequently began fighting beside the Lebanese Christian militias against the Palestinians and their leftist Moslem allies.

Damascus Radio reported that Assad, visiting a Syrian air force base, told the pilots that the hotel attack was "directed against the Syrian people and the Syrian armed forces."

Spokesmen for the Palestinian guerrillas here said Assad's claim that the terrorists belonged to Al Fatah was a pretext for an all-out Syrian offensive against Palestinian forces in Lebanon.

"The charge that the Semiramis attackers were Fatah members is only aimed at justifying an attack by the Syrians."

"We think the Syrians might use the air force soon to strike at our positions in the mountains and in Beirut," he added. "This may be the reason why President Assad chose an air base near Damascus to hurl his threats against Fatah."

Syrian troops now control most of northern, eastern and southern Lebanon. The Palestinians are contained in an area of less than one-fifth of Lebanon, with their backs to the sea.

The guerrilla spokesman said the hotel terrorists were members of a dissident Fatah group based in Iraq and led by a radical code-named Abu Nidal — "father of the struggle." Abu Nidal was tried and sentenced to death in absentia by Al Fatah in 1974 for plotting to assassinate Arafat.

"The swiftness with which the terrorists were tried, sentenced and hanged may be designed to cover the real political indentity of the culprits and pin the crime deliberately on Fatah to justify another Syrian advance in Lebanon," the guerrilla spokesman said.

Lebanese President Elias Sarkis continued his diplomatic campaign to reach a negotiated settlement of the 17-month civil war that has taken 36,000 lives.

He scheduled a series of conferences with Arafat and leaders of the Christian and Moslem factions.

Ford strike enters 13th day

DETROIT (AP) — The nationwide strike against Ford Motor Co. moved into its 13th day today after sporadic weekend bargaining sessions between top-level officials for the United Auto Workers and the nation's No. 2 auto maker.

There was no indication as to what time the two sides would meet again today.

Negotiations in the strike against Ford by 170,000 UAW members were marked Sunday by meetings in which union president Leonard Woodcock and vice president Ken Bannon conferred with Ford officials. Neither side would disclose the specific issues discussed.

Sidney F. McKenna, Ford's chief bargainer, said in a weekend statement, "A great many tough issues remain to be resolved, and we are working diligently toward that goal." He said the talks were covering both economic and noneconomic issues.

Robert Middlekauff, director of labor relations planning, was the other principal Ford official present at Sunday's sessions.

In addition to those meetings, there was a subcommittee session dealing with health and safety issues.

The strike, which began at midnight Sept. 14 at 102 Ford facilities in 22 states, has completely shut down the auto maker's vehicle production.

Negotiators are trying to get a master contract at Ford that would serve as a pattern for 700,000 UAW workers at all four major domestic car makers.

The ripple effect of the walkout is expected to spread after Oct. 1 as suppliers dependent on Ford are forced to lay off more employes. Several thousand of them and nearly 10,000 Canadian Ford workers already have been laid off.

The UAW and Ford disclosed last Thursday that the talks were making progress, and both sides voiced optimism.

There has been mounting speculation that Ford, which made three offers before the strike, is preparing a revised offer on several key issues.

Officer injured in fair fracas

A Pomona police officer was injured Saturday night in a fracas with two Fontana men in the Fun Zone of the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds.

The officer, Porfirio Rodriguez, was injured when he and his partner, David Johnson, tried to mediate a dispute between the Fontanans and a third man. Johnson reported that when Rodriguez was trying to talk to the unidentified third man, one of the others, Rodney J. Beck, 22, pushed him. When Rodriguez pushed back, Beck swung at him and a struggle began. During the fracas Johnson tried to assist Rodriguez and the other Fontanan, Chris Basile, 24, joined in, officers said. A civilian who tried to help Rodriguez and Johnson was struck before the two men were subdued. Both were booked on suspicion of felonious assault on a police officer.

Rodriguez later experienced difficulty breathing and was relieved from duty after an examination by a physician.

Burglary arrests

Montclair police arrested two men in connection with several burglaries in the West End area in the past several weeks.

Booked in the West End Jail this morning on burglary charges in lieu of $25,000 bail each were Oris Marrs, 18, of 4108 Val Verde Ave., Chino, and Kenneth Michael Pepe, 18, of 15738 San Jose St., Chino.

Montclair police reported recovering approximately $3,000 in stolen property in the investigation.

Youth injured

A youth suffered a broken arm Saturday in a traffic collision involving a hit-run driver, Pomona police reported.

The victim, Doyle A. Kelley Jr., of Pomona, told officers he was southbound in Garey Avenue at Poplar Street, when the driver ahead of him made an abrupt U-turn. In the collision which followed, Kelley was injured and the other driver sped away.

Kelley was examined at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and transferred later to County-USC Medical Center.

School attendance returns to normal

Attendance at public schools was back to normal today, said Pomona Schools Supt. Charles C. Carpenter.

There was high absenteeism on Friday at seven district schools when parents, sympathetic to demonstrating teachers, kept their children home in a mass boycott.

Carpenter said that a spot check of those seven schools this morning showed that there apparently was no spill-over effects of the Friday boycott.

Absenteeism was far above normal Friday at San Jose and North San Antonio elementary schools, at Palomares and Marshall Junior highs and at Pomona, Ganesha and Garey high schools.

A group of parents calling themselves Committee of Concerned Parents called the boycott to draw attention to frustrations expressed by Associated Pomona Teachers (APT).

Still in negotiations on a 1976-77 contract with the district, the teachers have pegged class size as an area of dissatisfaction. Many classes, they claim, are far too large for effective teaching.

The parents group agreed.

11 rescued in sea mishap

SAN PEDRO (AP) — Eleven persons have been rescued following the partial sinking of an 80-foot commercial fishing boat off Carpinteria.

A U.S. Coast Guard spokesman said the purse seiner was fishing Sunday evening with several other boats when the mishap occurred.

The Coast Guard dispatched a cutter from Santa Barbara, but other fishermen had pulled the victims from the water before it arrived.

Widow sues over estate

INDIO (AP) — Film director John Ford's widow has filed a $4.1 million suit against the executors of her husband's estate, claiming they mismanaged his affairs before and after his August 1973 death.

Mary Ford alleged in the suit filed last week that the defendants negotiated the sale of the family's luxury yacht, a Bel Air home and a Rolls Royce automobile at amounts far below what they were worth.

She also accused defendant Richard Harris of Los Angeles of drawing up the late director's will in such a manner that taxes ate up much of the estate's assets.

Also named in the suit were Lee Winkler of Los Angeles and the law firm of Wyman, Bautzer, Rothman and Kuchel.

Tornadoes batter 4 Indiana counties

By The Associated Press

Four tornado-battered Indiana counties tried to sort out the debris today following a rash of twisters which left one person dead and at least 24 injured.

The National Weather Service said at least three tornadoes, spawned by thunderstorms moving ahead of a cold front, churned through Jackson, Bartholomew, Decatur and Jefferson Counties Sunday evening. Seymour, in Jackson County, was the hardest hit, with damage estimated at $1 million by county Civil Defense director Lyman Goben.

A twister slammed into the Sky Haven trailer park on Seymour's west side shortly after 5 p.m., destroying five mobile homes and damaging five others, authorities said. Lavina Arnold, 52, a resident of the trailer park, suffered head and chest injuries. She was taken to Jackson County Hospital and later moved to Louisville, Ky., General Hospital, where she died on an operating table, a spokesman said.

A tornado also struck near Westport, Ind., causing extensive property damage. And twisters touched down near Columbus, Ind., resulting in considerable damage but no injuries. Another tornado was reported in Jefferson County, Ind., but there have been no reports of damage or injuries.

Severe weather was not limited to Indiana. Tornadoes, large hail and damaging winds struck portions of Texas during the afternoon and evening. Several tornadoes were reported along the Texas Gulf coast. Several twisters struck southern texas near Bay City and McAllen. Some damage was reported near Bay City, but no injuries were reported. Earlier in the afternoon, a tornado struck near Alvin. In central Texas, a tornado struck near Gatesville, with no damage or injuries reported.

A line of heavy thunderstorms lasted into this morning along the Texas Gulf coast and panhandle. Other showers and thunderstorms were located through the mid-Mississippi valley, the Ohio valley and the Carolinas.

Showers were scattered across the upper Mississippi valley and eastern Colorado. Rain was widespread through the northern Atlantic coast states.

Temperatures dropped into the low 30s through North Dakota and northeastern South Dakota. Frost warnings were in effect for South Dakota.

A heavy snow warning continued for the mountains of Colorado. Six inches or more of snow was expected above 9,000 feet.

Temperatures around the nation ranged from 24 at Minot, N.D., Air Force Base to 82 at Brownsville, Tex., and Key West, Fla.

Edison has over 80 conservation tips. Here are a few.

SIX HOT TIPS ON AIR CONDITIONING.

You'll save energy. Money, too.

1. Air condition only rooms in use. If you have a room unit, keep all doors closed to the room you're cooling. When the children (or family pet) go outside, don't forget to close the door. Keep the windows closed, too. And draw your draperies and blinds. Outside awnings or other sun screens will also reduce your cooling needs.

2. Keep equipment clean. Clean accessible parts, but be careful not to damage them. Check filters every month and clean or replace as needed.

3. Keep temperature at 78° or higher. The less difference there is between inside and outside temperatures, the lower the air conditioning cost. If you have a room air conditioner, use a thermometer to see that the room temperature drops no lower than 78°. Remember: air conditioning is not to make you cold—just comfortable.

4. Consider an automatic timer. Timer attachments are available that will turn off your room air conditioner when you are away from home and turn it on before you return.

5. Investigate an energy-saving unit. If you're in the market for a room air conditioner, compare the Energy Efficiency Ratio rating. The higher the efficiency, the more cooling you get from the electricity you use.

6. Insulate your attic. If your attic isn't properly insulated, you could be using too much energy for air conditioning. (Too much energy to heat your home, too.) For information, see your local insulation contractor.

A new extension course of interest to the teaching profession will be offered by CAL POLY POMONA Continuing Education in the fall quarter.

"Teacher and the Law," a special program devised by Richard S. Hyslop, a social sciences professor, will answer important legal questions for teachers and school administrators.

The course will meet on Wednesdays from 7 to 10 p.m. starting this week at Cal Poly School of Arts, room 106.

Registration will be accepted at the first class. The course offers three units of upper division credit.

Additional information may be obtained by calling 598-4391.

CHAFFEY COLLEGE will present a series of fall quarter community sessions on weight management on Fridays from 9 to 10 a.m. starting this week.

The program in room 49 of the Campus Center is geared toward the individual needs of both men and women. There is no charge for the program. Further information may be obtained by calling 987-1737.

Cranston field rep to hold sessions

Domitilo Vaca, field representative to Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., will hold one-day sessions with valley residents this week in San Dimas, Claremont and Pomona.

He will be at the San Dimas City Hall Tuesday, 1 to 4 p.m., Claremont library multi-service center, Thursday, 4 to 8 p.m., and the Ganesha Park Center, Friday, 1 to 4 p.m.

Vaca visits California communities to gather local opinions and help residents having problems with federal agencies. No advance reservations are needed.

While in the valley, he will discuss with local officials how federal programs are affecting the area.

Park named for general's kin

SUN PRAIRIE, Wis. (AP) — As part of the bicentennial celebration, a new park here has been named for Tabitha Burgoyne Bird, daughter of a nephew of "Gentleman Johnny" Burgoyne, British general defeated at Saratoga in the Revolution.

One of her great-great-granddaughters, Caroline Bird, New York author, spoke at the dedication ceremonies.

The nephew, Dr. Augustus Horatio Burgoyne, a medical officer with the invading British, was captured at the Battle of Bennington in 1777 and married Annie Rice, one of the local women who fed the prisoners there.

Tabitha, one of their four daughters, married Zenas Bird of Connecticut and after his death moved with several of her sons from Munnsville, N.Y., to Wisconsin.

They founded and named this community and Tabitha is buried here.

Oswald: "When you find yourself in a doubtful contract, your best line of play is to place the defenders' important cards where you will be able to make your contract, and not to just play safe and get set gracefully."

Jim: "East took his ace of clubs and returned the jack. A duck at trick one would have insured defeat of the contract, but East thought his partner had led a singleton, not a doubleton."

Oswald: "South was in with the king. He studied the hand for some time and saw that he just wasn't going to make his contract if East held the ace of diamonds. Therefore, in accordance with the principle mentioned above, South led a diamond. West ducked. South won with dummy's queen, led a heart and stuck in the jack."

Jim: "West won the king and led a trump. South won and played a second diamond. West won and led a second trump. South won in dummy to discard his low club on a diamond. Cashed his ace of hearts, ruffed the deuce of hearts with the ace of trumps, overtook dummy's queen with his king, played his last trump and was home with the bacon."

Ask the Jacobys

Starting with today's answer, we are going to respond to a group of bidding questions that have come in over the past several months. The first one is this: In the sequence dealer one club, partner one diamond, is the diamond call forcing?

The answer is a decided yes in all systems.

Almanac

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, September 27, the 271st day of 1976. There are 95 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1964, the Warren Commission issued its report concluding that Lee Harvey Oswald had acted alone in the assassination of President John Kennedy.

On this date —

In 1779, John Adams was named to negotiate Revolutionary War peace terms with Britain.

In 1825, in England, George Stephenson operated the first locomotive to haul a passenger train.

In 1904, a policeman in New York arrested a woman he had seen smoking a cigarette in a car.

In 1939, during World War II, Warsaw, Poland was surrendered to the Germans after 19 days of heavy air raids and artillery bombardment.

In 1940, also during World War II, a pact was signed in Germany setting up the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo Axis.

In 1959, a typhoon that battered the Japanese island of Honshu killed nearly 5,000 people.

Ten years ago: Two U.S. Marine planes bombed a friendly village in South Vietnam by mistake, killing 28 mountain tribesmen.

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon and Emperor Hirohito of Japan met in Anchorage, Alaska. It was the first meeting between an American president and a Japanese Emperor.

One year ago: There was a storm of protest in Europe over the Spanish government's execution of five young political terrorists.

Today's birthday: Former movie star George Raft is 81.

Thought for today: The greater the power, the more dangerous the abuse. — Edmund Burke, British statesman, 1729-1797.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, Venice's ambassador to London reported to his government that American ships had begun to challenge British ships even in their own channels and to capture vessels trading with Portugal, Africa and Italy.

Academic probation program in Montclair

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

Dropping out of high school often results when a student gradually falls behind in classwork, according to Dean Smothers, Montclair High School principal.

With the assistance of a faculty committee, Smothers this fall has launched a stay-in alternative for Montclair's "behind students.

All sophomore and junior students who at this time have earned less than the minimum number of credit units required at respective grades to apply towards graduation have been placed on academic probation the fall semester.

A student may earn his or her way off academic probation, Smothers explained, by passing 20 semester hours of school work and by maintaining this minimum level of progress during future semesters.

In addition to working closely with the counseling staff, students may improve their status by attending summer school, by taking advantage of various tutorial programs that are available on campus free of charge, by meeting with teachers for individual assistance or by registering for a study skills class.

Following the recommendations of the faculty committee, the students identified as being behind and their parents were contacted by Montclair High School's counseling staff and offered alternatives for improving school performance.

The number of students placed on academic probation was not disclosed.

Some were referred to the district's alternative schools which feature individualized instruction. They are Valley View High School in Ontario and the Mountain High Alternative School in Upland.

All will be closely monitored this fall, Smothers said.

"Not all students who fall behind in credit units are deficient in basic skills, although many are," explained Smothers. "Montclair offers basic level instruction in all required course work in an attempt to minimize failure based on course content that is too difficult for a given student."

According to Smothers, other factors have contributed to the problem.

"The reduction in course offerings in the Chaffey Joint Union High School District due to budget cuts eliminated the margin of error for non-academic students.

"In order to graduate with his class, a 10th grader must pass every class every semester.

"Students who do not perform well in their early years in high school often fail to appreciate the impact of their lower-division performance on a graduation deadline," the principal said.

While academic probation has been a strategy employed in the district in the past, the current program at Montclair is based on the assumption that students who are not succeeding will have their chances improved if they receive more encouragement and individual attention.

"By working closely with the counseling staff, the Montclair administration intends to provide positive reinforcement for students who often are told they are not doing well, but not told what to do instead," Smothers said.

He emphasizes that students presently on academic probation will be encouraged to change their status and will receive the support services which will enable them to do so.

Rather than dropping out or being referred to other schools in the district, Montclair students will be given the opportunity to succeed at Montclair High School.

Five injured in 3 traffic accidents over weekend

Five persons were injured, none seriously in three traffic accidents in the valley over the weekend.

Three Mt. Baldy residents escaped with minor injuries when their car rolled over on Mt. Baldy Road south of Ice House Canyon Road early Sunday morning.

The driver, Koby Krick, 22, told the highway patrol the car slid on sand as he was rounding a curve. The car went off the road, struck a boulder and overturned.

Krick and his two passengers, Tracy Cheney, 15, and Kim Marley, 18, were treated at San Antonio Community Hospital and released.

Sharon Danae Bell, 33, of 2291 Halcyon Way, Pomona, was hurt slightly Saturday morning when her car went off the eastbound off-ramp of the Foothill Freeway at Arrow Highway, San Dimas area, and rolled over. She told the highway patrol she had lost control of the car as she applied her brakes, hit a curb and rolled down an embankment.

She was treated at San Dimas Community Hospital and released.

A Baldwin Park woman was injured in a three-car front-to-rear collision Saturday afternoon on the San Bernardino Freeway near Ganesha Boulevard, Pomona.

The highway patrol said a car registered to Janice Bailey of El Monte slowed down at the scene of a previous accident. Thomas D. Russell, 25, of Baldwin Park, slowed behind the first vehicle and was struck in the rear by a car driven by Susan J. Juarez, 32, of Nipomo. The impact drove the Russell car into the rear of the Bailey car. The driver of the latter, apparently mistaking the highway patrolman's order to clear the lane, drove off.

Lorraine S. Russell, 24, of Baldwin Park, a passenger in Russell's car, was treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and released.

'Meet Your Local Officials' reception by women voters

The League of Women Voters of Pomona and Diamond Bar will host a "Meet Your Local Officials" wine tasting reception Thursday, Oct. 7, at Casa Colina Hospital in Pomona.

Lynne Keating, president of the local organization, said the event will also serve as a fund raiser to support the voter services provided by the league and its other activities.

One of the league's most popular voter services is the publication of in-depth analysis of ballot propositions. Mrs. Keating said the arguments, both pro and con, for the propositions on the Nov. 2 ballot will be available at the event.

The reception will begin at 5:30 p.m. in the hospital's Common Room.

Expected to attend the event are local federal, state, county, city and school officials.

Wines served at the reception will be from Krug Winery.

Entertainment will be provided by Barbara Trieselmann, a professional singer and league member who has appeared in New York City and North Carolina. She will be accompanied by Nelda Allinson.

Death of Mao to be discussed

"China After Mao" is the title of a lecture to be given by Professor Arthur Rosembaum Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at 757 W. 7th St., Claremont.

He will address a meeting of the Pomona Valley Chapter of the U.S.-People's Friendship Association. Admission is free. Refreshments will be served.

Professor Rosembaum received his Ph.D. from Yale University. Currently he teaches Chinese history at Claremont Men's College and the Claremont Graduate School. He recently spent three years of research on Taiwan.

His lecture will center on effects of the death of Mao.

GETTING THE FACTS

Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire, left, and Mary Montes, center, president of the Pomona School Board, join Lynne Keating, president of the League of Women Voters of Pomona and Diamond Bar, in looking over the league's analysis of ballot propositions on the Nov. 2 ballot.

ENJOYING THE GOOD LIFE

Bob Brown and his wife Nancy of Crestline pose beside two of their seven vehicles that can be found from time-to-time on their mountain property. A classic car buff, Brown also owns a 1938 Packard and a 1922 Seagraves fire truck in addition to the 1924 Studebaker and the former Greyhound bus.

Antique car buff has a choice to drive to Pomona

Crestline resident Bob Brown has a choice of vehicles to get him to work in Pomona each morning.

A traffic results supervisor for General Telephone, Brown might drive down the hill from Crestline in his 1922 Seagraves fire truck.

There are also a 1951 GMC bus, a 1924 Studebaker, a 1938 Packard V12, and a 1972 Toronado.

Brown has been an antique car buff most of his life. The Packard has been with him since 1957, and he has added to the collection as time passed.

The former Greyhound bus is a newcomer to the family, and was purchased from a private party in November 1975.

The bus is the family's biggest interest at present.

Wife Nancy and children Cori and Robert have been working with Bob to turn the diesel-burner into a recreation vehicle.

While the bus only gets three miles to a gallon, diesel fuel is considerably cheaper than gasoline.

"You just have to be careful about where you park," Brown said. "Backing up is a bear, and you don't find many 40-foot parallel parking slots in the city."

Why did the Browns move to a place 46 miles from work?

"We were tired of crowded living conditions, smog and the fast pace of life in the city," Brown said, "so we sold our home in Claremont and moved to Crestline."

"Up here, people take their time. They have time to visit, appreciate nature, breathe the air, and enjoy peace and quiet," Brown explained.

The Browns selected their home in Crestline with the idea that they would need space for their vehicles, including a four-wheel drive Toyota and a Honda motorcycle.

"It's really a treat to drive out of the smog and to go home to the trees, fresh air, peace and quiet and to putter with my cars," Brown said. "I'll drive 46 miles a day for that any day," Brown concluded.

Chino man takes life

Joe Bieria, 52, of 15133 Carpenter St., Chino, died early Saturday morning of what West End sheriffs officers said was self-inflicted hanging.

Mr. Bieria was found hanging in the garage of his home about 6:30 a.m. by a member of the family.

Deputies said Mr. Bieria had recently become despondent over marital problems.

Weatherman changes mind

The weatherman changed his mind this morning and predicted that it will not rain in the valley today or Tuesday.

But overcast skies which have been holding daytime temperatures down to the 70s for the past week, will continue a little longer.

The sprinkles which were expected in the valley this morning stopped in Central California and moved east.

And the long lasting storm front which has been dropping precipitation on the Southland off and on during the past week is breaking up, giving way to some afternoon sunshine. The weatherman says mostly fair days will follow after Tuesday.

Speech-debate open house set

The English department of Claremont High School will host a speech-debate open house Tuesday at 7 p.m. in room 106.

Louis W. Cockerhan, new faculty member and director of forensics, has prepared the open house to acquaint students and parents with the speech-debate program.

World of work to be explored

Students will explore future jobs through the eyes of alumni this fall at Harvey Mudd College, Claremont.

The project, called WOW (World of Work) Seminars, is an effort to bring the real world closer to the classroom.

Alumni will meet informally with students at noon each Friday through the fall semester.

Discussions will range over paths alumni have taken since graduation and their careers. The seminars, scheduled to begin Oct. 15, are open to students of the other Claremont Colleges.

The first wil be an unusual twist for Harvey Mudd students, most of whom are looking ahead to careers in engineering, chemistry, math and physics. The speaker will be Dr. Tom Valk who is studying psychiatry at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn.

He left Harvey Mudd in 1969 with a degree in physics.

Future speakers will represent fields of engineering, math, chemistry, physics, teaching and law.

Management seminar

A management seminar for the owners, managers or prospective owners of small businesses will be offered starting Thursday, Oct. 7, by the Pomona Chamber of Commerce and Cal Poly.

The first seminar will cover the subjects of advertising and sales promotion. It will be taught by Alan Goodman of Sears.

It will begin at 7 p.m. in the chamber board room.

On Oct. 21 a seminar will be held for persons wishing to begin a small business.

Lowell Anderson will give the third seminar in the series on Nov. 18 on the subject of sales dynamics.

Liberty abhors a vacuum

One presidential candidate whose name is not likely to become a household word is Roger L. MacBride, standard bearer of the Libertarian Party-

But anybody who is really hankering after "a choice, not an echo" might want to look into MacBride's campaign manifesto, a modest paperback called "A New Dawn for America: The Libertarian Challenge," published by Green Hill Publishers, Inc., of Ottawa, Ill.

Simply stated, the Libertarian platform calls for the abolition of the omnipresent power the bureaucrats in Washington have amassed over the lives of individual Americans and the return of the government to what the Founding Fathers intended it to be.

Consider the following facts, says MacBride.

Washington has increased 100-fold in size and power in just the last 45 years. Government at all levels continues to double every seven years, while the economic energy that sustains our lives grows more slowly. The average person now pays more in taxes than for all the necessities of life put together.

The trouble is that many Americans don't realize what has happened, he says. They go on thinking the government is the same as always — too big and wasteful, perhaps, but still "ours" and still, on the whole, benign.

"They go on indulging its expensive bumbling and meddling as a parent indulges a child. They grumble, but accept its claimed Authority. This attitude has been endlessly useful to Washington for expanding its power, picking our pockets and running our lives."

Few Americans, however, will be persuaded to go all the way with the Libertarians, some of whom seem to be advocating the total dismantling of the federal and state governments and their replacement with what would amount to a multitude of minigovernments — free and voluntary associations of people with common interests.

For if Americans have a healthy fear of big government, they also fear big Standard Oil or big Teamsters or big anything else, and recognize the need for some kind of referee to safeguard the interests of the weak and powerless and to promote the welfare of the general public.

Columnist Carl Rowan touched on this recently when, in writing about the widespread fraud in the Medicaid program, he warned that unless the medical profession begins cleaning its own house it is inevitably inviting more and more government interference.

Why do we have big government? he asked. And answered:

Because government drifts into vacuums of discipline and control. It rides herd on the stock market because of past calamitous abuses. It monitors the drug industry, pressures the automobile industry, lays rigid rules on lending institutions because they all opened the door to government intervention by short-changing or defrauding the public.

This, of course, is as simplistic as the Libertarian idea that all government is bad government. Everybody wants Uncle Sam to regulate the other guy, and we have developed an alarming tendency to ship all our problems to Washington.

But while it is one thing to say, as MacBride does, that liberty is the absence of forcible restraints, it is quite another to suggest that anything resembling liberty can exist in a state of anarchy.

The Founding Fathers knew this. They knew that it was in the nature of men — in government or out, singly or in combination — to further their own interests at the expense of others'. And they left us, after all, not with the finished structure of a free society but merely the blueprint for one.

The real challenge facing Americans today is how to achieve the balance they sought, the balance between public need and private freedom. One may not agree with everything the Libertarians believe, but if they can inspire us to do some hard thinking about this, they will have rendered valuable service.

All take and no give

Dear Editor:

Omissions and half-truths in the recent handout circulated by the California Teachers Association leads us to hope that parents in the Pomona School District will read this letter.

On the Sept. 21 handout the CTA has asserted that their interests are not economics. However, in their negotiations they are demanding time and a half for attending open house school functions, back to school night, and PTA meetings. We parents work all day, too, but attend these meetings because we're really interested in our youth, and what goes on in their lives.

APT demands a six and a half hour day (including lunch) and an 8.4 per cent increase in pay. The increase offered them is 7.2 per cent — the highest of 42 districts in Los Angeles County.

We resent the shoddy trick of a camouflaged handout at Pomona High School which used the youth as pawns by urging them to skip school on Friday and thereby put pressure on the school administration to accede to CTA demands.

APT has demanded mandatory membership of all teachers in APT, CTA, NEA. Their dues would be deducted from payroll whether they approved or not. Does anyone out there smell union control of schools by strikes as part of these denials of free choice?

In a district where the tax base is declining, and wages and supplies are increasing costs, something has to give. Administrative help may need trimming, but so do sabbatical paid leaves, and subsidized professional advancements. The APT cannot have all take and no give. — Two Pomona High School parents

A break for tax cheats

WASHINGTON — Over the strong protests of his own enforcement officials, Internal Revenue Commissioner Donald Alexander last year struck a key question off the income tax forms. The question, which simply asked the taxpayers whether they maintain a foreign account, was intended to catch tax evaders.

Big-time criminals, from corporate embezzlers to mobsters, use secret foreign bank accounts to escape paying U.S. taxes. The taxes they avoid, of course, must be made up by the honest taxpayers.

The question about foreign bank accounts has been used by the IRS to trap tax cheaters. In the biggest tax haven case in history, for example, Ohio businessman Jack Payner has been indicted for falsely answering "no" to the question.

Yet Alexander began maneuvering to remove the foreign bank account question from the tax form even before he was sworn in as Internal Revenue commissioner. It is an interesting coincidence that his former Cincinnati law firm has been linked to a tax haven bank in the Bahamas.

An IRS informant in the Bahamas swiped a Rolodex off the desk of Michael Wolstengroft, director of the Castle Bank and Trust. Three cards on the Rolodex contained names of lawyers in Alexander's old firm. We were able to reach only one of the attorneys, who said he had no idea how his name got on the Rolodex.

On May 22, 1973, exactly one week before Alexander took his oath of office, he began a behind-the-scenes campaign to eliminate the foreign bank account question from the tax forms. He forwarded a letter, dealing with an unrelated subject, from a South Carolina lawyer to the IRS committee that deals with tax forms. In an accompanying memo, intended for official eyes only, Alexander brought up the foreign bank account question.

He followed the memo with pressure to remove the troublesome question from the tax forms. This was opposed by his enforcement people. John Olszewski, then the IRS intelligence chief, wrote in a confidential memo: "The loss of this (question) would seriously restrict our efforts to identify those who would use foreign banking facilities in avoidance and evasion schemes."

A similar memo from Edward Morgan, then the assistant treasury secretary in charge of enforcement, also advised Alexander that the question "is a factor in the Treasury Department's efforts to combat the use of foreign bank accounts to facilitate illegal activities." Morgan added sternly that "dropping it from the tax returns at this time would be counter-productive."

Yet Alexander ignored the advice of the law enforcement experts and finally succeeded in removing the question in June, 1975. The notes of the confidential IRS meeting indicate that he didn't even consult the Treasury and Justice Departments before finally striking the question off the tax forms. Alexander's attitude was betrayed by his remarks to a group of public accountants. "We have knocked out the foreign bank account question at long last," he told them.

Footnote: An IRS spokesman admitted there had been disagreement over the question's removal but insisted Alexander's actions were beyond reproach. Meanwhile, Rep. Charles Vanik, D.-Ohio, has introduced legislation that would force the IRS to reinstate tne foreign bank account question.

SUSPICIOUS THAIS: The Thai government is quietly investigating a questionable deal between a Thai airline and a U.S. aircraft manufacturer.

The Thai want to find out why the airline, Thai International, paid McDonnell Douglas Corp. $2 million more per plane than was charged to their airways. Thai investigators are also suspicious, say our sources, because the government-owned airline made a down payment before the transaction was approved by the Thai cabinet. This violated government regulations.

As part of the investigation, the Thai government has sent its communications secretary, Dr. Gun Nagamati, to the United States to do a little probing. He has met privately with Securities and Exchange officials and Senate investigators.

A McDonnell spokesman told us it was against company policy to discuss the terms of the Thai transaction. We have obtained a confidential cable, however, in which the corporation's president, Sanford N. McDonnell, denies any impropriety. Corporation officials have also assured the Thais privately that the company did not "bribe or promise to pay money to any airline or government official." A spokesman for the Thai embassy confirmed the details of the investigation.

Footnote: In an unrelated investigation, the Securities and Exchange Commission has been looking into payments by McDonnell to foreign officials. The company has already admitted that approximately $2.5 million was paid to officials of foreign governments or government-owned airlines between January, 1970 and June, 1975.

Think on these things

There are feelings and beliefs far too dear to share with other persons. Nothing so crushes the spirit as having something we care very much about shot down by one who does not understand or believe. It is better when we know something to be true within us to keep it there until it is strong enough to survive the heat of examination.

Life is seldom interpreted the same way by two people — making it nearly impossible to find greatness in the same things. But we must not take away the main support from someone's daily life because we do not see his way. And we should never try to force upon him those things we think are necessary. Respect toward feelings and beliefs, and setting only good examples does more good than all the criticism in the world.

More talk than action

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — A candidate must do more than assert what he will do if elected.

To be believable he must tell how he will go about achieving the goals he sets before us. How, above all, will he get a reluctant Senate and House of Representatives to go along with what he pledges on the campaign trail?

Especially when it's Jimmy Carter or Gerald Ford and their vice-presidential running mates promising changes no Congress in recent years has cottoned to.

Mr. Ford proposes to ease the tax burden on the middle class. Yet the Congress in its wisdom after two years of work has come forth with a proposal so complicated that it's understood by only a few tax experts, and they're knowledgeable almost solely on the loopholes destroyed and created. But one thing is certain — the new legislation does little to help the middle-class taxpayer and reserves almost all of its goodies for special interests, with special favors for the rich and poor. This leaves the middle class holding the bag.

Mr. Ford can sign this monstrosity into law or veto it. He can't change the wording along Ford-Dole lines. And since it is almost certain the same Democratic majority which controls Congress today will control both the Senate and House next year and the year after, how will Messers. Ford and Dole accomplish what they promise?

As for Jimmy Carter. He proposes, ad nauseum, to soak the well-to-do, and, like Robin Hood, give the proceeds to the poor. But assuming this promise is more than a campaign gimmick, Carter and Mondale would be up against the same Congress as the Ford-Dole team.

Carter, moreover, has given no evidence of being better able to handle a strong-minded legislature than has President Ford.

We recall that Mr. Ford came into the presidency after a quarter century in Congress, where he was well liked both by his fellow Republicans and by his Democratic opponents. He had a reputation as a tough but respected fighter. Yet his record in influencing Congress from the White House has been dismal. His strongest point has been negative. That is, most of his vetoes have been sustained. His positive proposals have, in the main, been ignored.

So much for a man with a previously excellent track record with the Congress.

Now for Jimmy Carter. His record, both as a legislator and as governor indicates no particular ability at influencing a reluctant legislature, or at keeping on good terms with either his friends or opponents in the Georgia body. This is not to argue whether the legislature was right or wrong, or whether any man could have done better. It is simply to say that the Carter record here is not impressive. And that's all we have to go by. Except promises. And assurances.

Carter talks about going to the people. And bringing pressure. He tried both in Georgia. He did not hesitate to embarrass or attack individual lawmakers, even friends and past supporters who differed with him on one bill or another. The record does not indicate this technique was worth continuing. And most certainly, federal cabinet secretaries who have attempted that strong-voice approach with the U.S. Congress have invariably come away with hands burnt at the elbow.

What's being talked about in this tax shift is gibberish in any case.

There is no way to lower taxes on the poor further without increasing the burden on the middle class. There aren't enough rich.

Congress knows this. Jimmy Carter knows it. And President Ford. The record is plain: There is no relief in sight for the middle-class taxpayer. Only more suffering.

Just in jest

What this world needs is a universal language. English, of course, comes the closest to being just that, but naturally there is a thing called national pride which makes some nations hesitant to go all the way with English. In fact, only recently France inaugurated a linguistic purity campaign and ordered all English words stricken from the French language.

And so, in the interest of better international communication, I propose this plan for quickly and easily devising an international language. — Simply take the various combinations of letters found on automobile license plates (There are literally thousands of them.) and to each combination of letters assign one word.

Thus XEZ could mean YOU in every language in the world. PDF could be assigned to the word DOG, and ZAW would mean dirty. Then, in the heat of argument, any diplomat in the world could arise and shout, "XEZ ZAW PDF!" and there wouldn't be the slightest chance of his being misunderstood.

The simplicity of this universal language would have much to recommend it. No word would ever be more nor less than 3 letters long. No combination of letters would have more than one meaning. There would be no words with similar sounds but different meanings such as TO, TWO and TOO. In this new universal language UTF, KPS and QUY would take care of that sort of confusion. And just imagine what some international Big Wig with an accent like Kissinger's could do with, "VUT ZEE HEL! UNO INO URA DUM SKI!"

People revolt

A demand for the return to a "citizen-legislature" has been voiced by the Napa County Taxpayers Association. In what may be the rise of a "people revolt" against continuous legislative sessions, the group has voted to work actively in support of a constitutional amendment halting the two year sessions.

The unit was sparked into action last month by the declaration of Senator Randolph Collier that the "full time professional" Legislature, meeting in continuous two year sessions has proved to be a "year around flop" Collier, who is completing his 38th year in the Senate, said he will introduce a constitutional change next year to limit sessions to 120 days a year and restrict the passage of general laws to every other year.

The Napa taxpayers promptly responded with a resolution "heartily" endorsing the proposal. They acknowledged being strongly influenced by Collier's views because "he has had long experience in both the professional and citizen type of legislature". They emphasized that the citizen type is more responsive to the wants of the people and is much more economical. They said a return to the limited sessions will save the taxpayers millions of dollars.

Volunteering their full cooperation they pledged themselves to "the circulation of petitions for an initiative" if the Legislature balks at placing Collier's measure on the ballot. They also are urging the California Taxpayers Association and all other county associations to join in a grass roots movement to bring about the legislative reform.

The importance of the Napa County organization's backing is seen in the fact that it is typical of the county taxpayer associations throughout the state. Once fairly well dominated by business interests, these units have emerged from semi-dormancy as home owners, plagued by oppressive property taxes and angered by the failures of the Legislature to deliver meaningful tax relief, have banded together to battle government spending and taxation.

And, Senator Collier, now busily campaigning for yet another term so that he can fulfill his aim of curtailing legislative sessions, said the taxpayers' group "is just one of the organizations supporting my proposal. I have also been getting pledges from the Grange."

There is no question that, fully mobilized, the county taxpayer and Grange organizations would present a formidable effort to reduce the present unbridled length of legislative sessions. That, without reckoning the weight of the State Building Trades Council's 300,000 members. It's president, James S. Lee, announced last month that he favors Collier's idea of limiting the sessions and he too pledged "my people will walk the streets with petitions" to place it on the ballot.

Collier's quarrel with the continuous sessions is based upon his belief they "are getting the representatives further and further away from those they represent. They don't have time to spend at home so that they can keep in tune with the desires of their constituents." He also said the sessions preclude the opportunity to "sit back and give meaningful study to problems which we formerly did with interim committees."

Behind Collier's compiaints is a growing resentment on the part of those representing the multitude of interests at the Capitol. Generally, referred to as "lobbyists", they are finding it impossible to keep abreast with the rapid maneuvering of the lawmakers as they use every device in violation of the constitution and the rules of the Legislature to gain passage of their pet measures.

No electricity for 14½ hours

Can you find an answer for my neighbors and me as to why we were without electricity for 14½ hours recently.

In the afternoon a storm blew up and knocked out a transformer in our block.

Several calls to the electric company drew no response. No service trucks were in the area.

The morning after, a truck arrived. I watched as the repairmen went up the pole. All it took was a few minutes or less to turn on the transformer.

After 14½ hours of inconvenience including spoiling of frozen foods this was exasperating. It seems to me the repair crew waited until daylight to check on the complaints.

I realize others were inconvenienced too. There must be an answer as to why. Surely the electric company has men on call for such an emergency. — Mrs. M.H., Pomona.

Bob Imhof, area manager of the Southern California Edison Co., apologized but explained that the company received 950 calls in about four hours.

Thirty-six transformers were blown up by lightning strikes.

This left 22,000 customers without service.

Instead of waiting until morning to deal with complaints as you implied, the Edison Co. used 23 crews to solve problems created by one of the worst thunderstorms in the history of this area. Crews came in from as far away as El Toro and Monterey Park.

Imhof admitted that the transformer near your home was the type that could be clicked on easily but the Edison men didn't know that when you called.

In early March I received a phone call from Periodical Publishers Service Bureau inviting me to subscribe to four magazines for $5.63 a month.

It sounded like a reasonable offer so I agreed.

A representative of the firm came to my home to confirm my subscription. He also asked for the first month's payment.

I wrote a check. He told me to expect the magazine to begin arriving in six to eitht weeks.

After three months the magazines began to arrive. During this time I made one additional payment to the firm although my magazines were constantly late.

When I received the TV Guide at the end of the week for two or three weeks, I got fed up and wrote to PPSB ordering the firm to discontinue its services.

I also said I wasn't going to send any more money.

I have written to the PPSB people three times but have received no answer. They continue to send me magazines which I promptly send back to them.

All I am interested in is getting them to stop sending me magazines and bills. — C.D., Pomona

After we got in touch with him Philip R. Stewart of PPSB apologized, saying your experience wasn't typical of the company's standard.

He said he has discontinued billing on your account and referred your correspondence to the firm's home office for investigation. He asked you to disregard any statements, collection notices or phone calls received within the next few days.

What people say

"New York is a federal city. Most of its functions only incidentally . . . serve New York state. The same is true of most of the cities on the East Coast and also of Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland. These cities are no longer integral parts of their states; they serve larger constituencies. Yet organization, law and fiscal procedures do not reflect this reality."

BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Tuesday, Sept. 28, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Enterprises given your personal touch today should turn out successfully. However, let your counterparts have a say, too.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If others volunteer to do things for you today, by all means let them, especially if they can gain advantages for you businesswise.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your judgment is quite keen today, particularly in weighty matters. You're able to see things as they truly are.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Concentrate today on situations that mean something to you materially or careerwise. You will do well in either camp.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Protect the interests of those you feel responsible for today. No one will try any shenanigans if you take charge.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Check the newspapers and other sources for household sales today. You might be able to acquire something you want.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) An old friend who has been on your mind lately would appreciate hearing from you. Phone or write her a few lines.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Possibilities for material accumulation are very good today, but you'll have to work hard for anything you get.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Meet your problems head on today. They're not nearly as difficult as your vivid imagination has led you to believe.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Others will look out for your needs today, to a limited degree. Put your own capable hands and mind to work also.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You may find yourself in an awkward position today where you'll need a pal to bail you out. Don't let her good deed fade from your memory.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It's possible you'll have some problems at work today. Don't be concerned. This cloud has a silver lining.

Your Birthday Sept. 28,, 1976:

A friend of long standing who is elder than you either in age or experience will prove a boon this year. He will be instrumental in furthering your ambitions.

Preventive medicine best

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell me (and millions of others) what this swine flu thing is all about. I need some no-nonsense answers to the following questions:

Why is the U.S. government spending $135 million on a project when there is no evidence that there will be a swine flu epidemic?

When will the shots be available to the public?

Is there a chance that a person can get swine flu from the shot?

Who should take the shot? Who should NOT take it?

Is the shot safe for pregnant women?

How effective will the shot be?

What are the possible side effects?

Where will the swine flu shots be given?

How much will they cost?

Are YOU going to have a swine flu shot?

Thanks for your help. It's wonderful to have somebody to turn to for reliable information. — We Appreciate You In New York

Dear N.Y.: The U.S. government is spending $135 million on the swine flu project because it believes in preventive medicine. There may be no epidemic but if one should occur it could be devastating. In 1957-58, over 70,000 people in the U.S. died of the Asian flu. In 1968-69 the Hong Kong flu claimed 30,000 lives.

The swine flu shots will be available by Oct. 1. Assistant HEW Secretary Dr. Theodore Cooper estimates that the shots should protect about 85 per cent of thos who take them. (The other 15 per cent should get milder cases than if they had no shot at all.)

There is NO chance that a person will get the flu from the shot because the vaccine is made of a killed virus. The only significant side effects MAY be a sore arm and a fever. (The government ran an experiment on 6,000 volunteers. Out of those who received the swine vaccine, 1.9 per cent developed a fever that lasted about 24 hours or less.)

Should children get the shot? The researchers are still working on dosages for children under 18. However, those children who are inclined to get fevers should NOT get the shot.

It is strongly recommended that adults over 18 get the regular swine flu shots (200 units of A-New Jersey/76). For the high-risk population (those over 60, those who have chronic heart disease, respiratory problems, diabetes — or cancer patients who are in treatment), a combination of the swine flu vaccine and A-Victoria/75 is recommended.

There is no reason why a pregnant woman should not take the swine flu shot.

It has been emphasized that the shot should NOT be taken by individuals who are allergic to eggs (this includes pregnant women).

The shots may be obtained from your physician, who may charge for an office visit but NOT for the vaccine. (He gets it free.) After Oct. 1, phone your local health department and ask where and when the shots will be offered in your city. They will be free.

Am I taking the swine flu shot ? You bet I am. I'll be one of the first in line the moment they are available.

Singing blues in the night

Although I have never suffered from insomnia (knock wood!), my heart goes out to all who do, because lying awake in the still of night, losing your sleep while all about you are getting theirs, is one of the more agonizing agonies that beset the human race.

Depending on the size of your family and the modus vivendi of your household, you are liable to wake up by dawn's early light with one or more small children nestled beside you — one or more usually damp. I'll say the wee hours.

The cat perches on your stomach and goes through lengthy ablutions, shaking the bed like the Tehachapi earthquake. The family dog lies in a corner growling and gnawing noisily at a fugitive flea. The "master bedroom" at 3 a.m. is more like the fun zone at the county fair.

But even without the benefit of a bedful of animals, two-legged and four-legged, there are nights when one awakens for no discernible reason and lies staring into the darkness while the grandfather's clock booms out the passing hours.

Toss and turn. Throw off the covers. Draw them back again. Swat a mosquito. Turn on left side. Turn on right. Wife asks angrily, sleepily, if you think you're on a trampoline. Pound the pillow. Turn it over. Turn it back.

One of the curses of insomnia, intermittent or habitual, is that only the gloomiest thoughts pervade your mind as you are trying to knit up the ravell'd sleave of care. It may have something to do with metabolism, or it may be a disease of our society, but the only things that come to your mind between 3 and 5 a.m. are nuclear warfare, crime in the streets and property taxes (another crime in the streets).

You think about your cavities, about your overdrawn bank account, the bad brakes on the car and Junior's latest report card. You recall recent disasters at shop or office and wonder how long you will hold your job. Morosely you ponder a thickening waistline and thinning hair.

Rolling over for the 17th time (and getting a uxorial knee in the middle of the back), you make a determined effort to think of something pleasant — the new girl in the typing pool, that weekend at the beach, the $42 you won playing poker last month. How about that 40-foot putt you sank for a birdie a couple weeks back on the fourth hole at San Dimas Canyon? You can still see the — but there was that triple bogie on the sixth — and those two you hit into the water on the 14th. Gloomsville.

Try again. Junior graduates this year, hurray! (But then there's college tuition, gulp!) Well, Sally is engaged and will soon be off your hands (but the cost of the wedding!). Uh — the market value on your house has gone up $10,000 (and so have your property taxes!).

Sleepless nights are for the birds — the owls. Police-inspector Lanner ("The Resident Patient") remarks that 5 a.m. is the most common time for suicides — and I believe it!

Dr. Lamb

Kidneys don't filter properly

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have a low renal threshold. My doctor said it was nothing to worry about and there was no diet to control it. My kidneys just don't absorb sugar and it shows up in my urine. Everytime I go for a physical, I'm sent for blood tests to see if I'm a diabetic.

My problem is I get a lot of headaches. I feel so miserable with them that I have to lie down. I have had a bladder infection and a few other infections. I also get tired very easily. I constantly have to go to the bathroom. Would losing so much sugar constantly cause my problems? Also is there more about low renal threshold than I know?

DEAR READER — You have a rare disorder. In the normal kidney the blood glucose is first filtered out in the plasma inside the kidney, then reabsorbed with the water and minerals that the body will retain. The kidney will reabsorb the glucose as long as the level in the blood does not exceed about 170 milligrams per cent). Above these levels the sugar is not reabsorbed and is spilled out in the urine.

In diabetes the blood glucose often exceeds 170 causing a positive urine test. Because of this association, sugar in the urine automatically requires a check to be sure the person is not diabetic. That is why you get a blood test everytime your urine is tested.

In your case, your threshold is lower which means you spill glucose into the urine when the blood level is below the usual 170 threshold. How important this is in your case depends upon what the threshold really is. If the threshold is too low it is one way to cause true hypoglycemia (low blood sugar).

Hypoglycemia can cause headaches and fatigue. There would be no harm in trying a few experiments on yourself to see what benefit you can derive from changing your diet. Why not try eating a diet that contains more protein and even fat, while eliminating the concentrated sweets and starches. Bulk cereal would be all right. You should still eat fresh fruits and vegetables. Avoid sweet liquids like the plague. Eating more frequently in smaller amounts may help you.

An infection of any type can cause headaches and fatigue too. Bladder infections may be more common with sugar in the urine. The frequency you experience may also be due to a bladder infection, but if you are really losing lots of glucose you will need to drink more water and thus experience this difficulty. You would have the same problem the diabetic has. The kidney needs to dilute the glucose for elimination so excess water is taken from the body.

I would recommend that you have a more detailed discussion with your doctor and find out just how low your threshold is. He may need to take special tests to find out. Your blood glucose level will give him a fairly good idea. It would be wise to measure the amount of glucose you are losing in a 24-hour period with your present living patterns.

For additional information I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-9, Low Blood Sugar: Hypoglycemia. Others who want this information can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Address your letter to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

It's possible: find a talent

It is possible to succeed if we dare to begin.

One of the most helpful sentences I ever heard was from the lips of Prof. Milton Hinga, my history professor at Hope College, Holland, Mich. When he found out that none of the members of his history class had even started their term papers, he rose, paced the room and said, "I am about to tell you the most important thing you will ever hear!"

Every eye focused upon him, waiting breathlessly for his great pronouncement. He spoke softly but firmly, "I don't care if you flunk. I don't care if you forget everything that I ever teach you in this class. But I never want you to forget this next sentence." After a dramatic pause he shouted out:

"BEGINNING IS HALF DONE!"

Do you have a good idea? Have you discussed it with knowledgeable people? And are you convinced that it is practical, inspiring and exceptional. Do you dare to run the risks involved? Then get started today.

It is my observation that real support for a cause never comes until we begin to exercise an aggressive faith.

God seldom performs a miracle until we try. And great faith involves going out on a limb where we run the risk of failure, possible embarrassment and potential defeat.

We can't expect God to move a mountain if we are not interested enough to get started!

Origin of the 'little burro'

That Mexican snack known as the burrito or "little burro" — spiced ground meat wrapped in a soft tortilla — was dreamed up in East Los Angeles by a Mexican American woman who had to improvise when she ran out of wieners at her hotdog stand.

Item No. 8615B in our Love and War man's file labeled "Advice to the Single Girl in Search of a Man" is a quotation from Zsa Zsa Gabor which reads, in effect: "She should have an ample bosom and a good brain, and then let half of both show."

No editor who errs now and then should forget that the most renowned of newspaper men do likewise. In 1913, editor Arthur Brisbane fired his movie critic with the explanation that movies did not deserve comment inasmuch as they were "just a passing fancy."

WARTS

Q. "Why is it that grownups are less likely than youngsters to have warts?"

A. The human body as it ages tends to build up antibodies against the wart viruses.

When that clink of glasses known as a toast originated 300-plus years ago, it always was in honor of some woman, never a man . . . That month when missing persons are most likely to turn up again is May . . . Once the fragrance of that perfume gets to your nose, it travels to your brain at a rate of about 220 m.p.h. . . . Patriotic tradition regards it as permissable to sing but never to talk while carrying the U.S. flag . . . Most recent surveys indicate that 81 per cent of the women nationwide are unsatisfied with their natural bustlines.

It has been observed that people who methodically collect things by accident, like outworn shoes, unread books and string, ribbons, rubber bands.

WOLVES

The environmentalists, bless them, repeatedly have said that there's no authenticated record of any attack by wolves on people in North America. Maybe not. But the survivors of a village in Siberia tell quite a story. A zodiac of hungry wolves one winter, they say, didn't just kill human stragglers thereabouts, but again and again raided their houses and sheds, slithered through holes they chewed open, and ripped into scores of helpless people, cowering in terror. Surely, I can't vouch for the truth of the tale, either. But the picture they paint of those starving beasts, clawing at the outside of doors to get in, the way some big dogs claw at the inside to get out, is grisly.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Ebell to open season

The Pomona Ebell Club will open its 75th year, Friday at 1:30 p.m., with an outstanding musical variety program by The Pitchpipers, a male quartet including Stuart Wade, Jack Roberts, Hal Thompson and Dave Anderson.

They will feature show tunes, folk songs, ballads, barbershop, spirituals, western, solos and guitar numbers. They have received top ratings in their recent appearances at Disneyland, Palm Springs and Laguna.

Tea will be served in the dining room by Mrs. Florence Tower, tea chairman, and her committee. Members will have an opportunity to bring guests without charge.

For the 12:30 p.m. luncheon, Oct. 15, all members are urged to phone their reservations by Oct. 13 to: Mrs. Lillian Cross; 623-5171; Mrs. Jewel Bayne, 629-7321; Mrs. Walter Wheeler, 622-7701; and Mrs. Grace Sinclair, 622-3214.

Exectuive board members for the coming year are: Mmes. E. G. Waterhouse, president; Ardell Holt, first vice president; Owen Lewis, second vice president; Bertha Schmidt, third vice president; Blaine Walker, fourth vice president; Lawrence Thomas, recording secretary; Ted Gronowick, financial secretary; Helen Carroll, treasurer; Phillip Hunt, corresponding secretary; Phillip Windsor Clancy, general curator; and Miss Marie Helsley and Mrs. Myron Powell, Mrs. Erle Simon and Mrs. Herman Wente, directors.

PITCHPIPERS QUARTET

Chapel setting for rite

The Petite Chapel in West Covina was the setting for the marriage of Phyllis M. Armstrong of Walnut and Upland to John S. Irwin of Walnut. The couple was wed by Dr. Fred T. Kolosick at a morning ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hughes MacMackin of Lancaster, Mass. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Irwin of Yonkers, N.Y.

Miss Patricia Fiske of Upland, daughter of the bride, was the honor attendant. Serving as best man was Walter Murray of San Diego. Mrs. Walter Murray of San Diego, sister of the bridegroom, was also an attendant.

The couple honeymooned at Flagstaff and the Grand Canyon and will reside in Walnut.

Proves popular

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 4,500 students have attended courses, lectures and workshops at the Womanschool since its opening in the spring of 1975.

The facility is a school of continuing education entirely devoted to the practical needs of today's women, seeking to broaden their basic skills, knowledge and self-confidence.

Its curriculum includes 41 courses covering the areas of careers, business and finance, personal discovery and growth, special interest and the creative arts.

Thickening

Men's neckties contain a piece of thickening cloth inside that has a bias cut to the right. This makes it easier for righthanded men to tie their ties, but makes it harder for lefthanders to form a good knot.

Oldest society

The Knights of Medusa, named for the mythical woman whose glance turned people to stone, is France's oldest wine-tasting society, National Geographic says. It was founded in 1690 in Marseille.

Healthful

You don't have to invest in a lot of equipment to keep fit. An inexpensive jump rope, used properly, will do it for you.

Fine Arts Foundation slates first meeting

The first meeting of the The Fine Arts Foundation of Scripps College will be a joint meeting with the Rembrandt Club of Pomona College Oct. 5 at 2 p.m. in Balch Auditorium of Scripps College. Speaker will be Richard D. Buck, director of Balboa Art Conservation Center, San Diego.

Mr. Buck worked at the Fogg Art Museum, Cambridge, from 1937 to 1951. He later was appointed head of the intermuseum Conservation Association at Oberlin and in 1974 upon his retirement from Oberlin he became founder and head of the Balboa Center. His topic will be "Conservation for Collectors and Museums."

Following the talk, tea will be served in Lang Gallery of Scripps College. Tea arrangements are under the supervision of Mrs. Ralph Canter and Mrs. Albert Kay. Wives of the Claremont College president will be at the tea tables.

The Fine Arts Foundation's limited edition will be available to members.

Building silos a big business

VESTABURG, Mich. (AP) — This is Silo City, U.S.A., byproclamation of its citizen.

Nobody nows how many people thistiny community near Mount Pleasant really has. Some guess 400, others 700 or 1,500.

But they know it's made plenty of silos in the past few decades.

Says 18-year-old Theresa Throop: "That's what most everybody does around here, build silos. Everybody's done it at least once."

Theresa is the granddaughter of Harry and Elsie Throop, who back in 1936 started the company that came to be known as the Vestaburg Silo Co. At the pinnacle of its success in the post-World War II agricultural boom, the company's 60 employes built 300 silos a summer.

More important, it trained young men in the right way to build silos. They were hardworking men whom other silo companies in Michigan and the Midwest later would hire to work for them or to sell their silos in Michigan.

Town veterans say almost all of Michigan's silo companies plus others from Wisconsin and Indiana have sales representatives here, most of whom got their start at Vestaburg Silo Co.

The company was sold two years ago. It now makes concrete products and builds no more silos. But former crew members have gone on to start their own companies.

Recently Vestaburg celebrated its annual Oldtimers Day, when oldtimers come back to their hometown. It was at an Oldtimers' Day two years ago that bumper stickers proclaiming Vestaburg "Silo City U.S.A." first appeared, and the name has stuck.

Because the silo staves are the town's biggest industry, visitors see swimming pools, cottages, a band shell and even a recording studio built in the shape of silos from the blocks, which are 30 by 12 by 2½ inches.

The recording silos, called Monotone Studio, are owned by Sid and Bonna Stubbs, who also run Statewide Silo Repair, one of the three silo companies in Vestaburg.

"We figured a round building would hold the sound better, and it does a beautiful job," says Sid Stubbs. His wife acknowledges the studio doesn't keep them too busy since they refuse to record anything but gospel music.

Sid Stubbs' main competitor, Michigan Silo Repair, is run by Arthur Throop, old Harry's son. Both got their training at the Vestaburg Silo Co.

Its crew men, Vestaburg folk say, were mostly single, between 18 and 30, who had to be away from home a lot in the summertime and were unemployed in the winter. They were strong, and had good arm muscles to carry the 74-to-94-pound concrete staves that make a silo.

And, they had only a small fear of heights.

"It was a business a little bit unique," says Ross Throop, who ran his dad's business for almost 20 years after Harry died in 1957.

"It offered a guy who wanted to go to college a chance to work during the summer and earn the next year's expenses. When he got out of high school, he's got maybe $30 in his pocket and hopes to buy a new car. So he gets on a building crew and earns good wages.

"And when he's out there working daylight to dark, he isn't spending any money. So in a few years' time he's accomplished some of what he wanted, and maybe a little quicker that way than working in a shop," says Throop.

Throop, 52, left the silo business and sold the company in 1974, partly on doctors' orders and partly because business went downhill after 1963 as more farmers left the fields and those who stayed built bigger but fewer silos.

In the years before he sold, Throop says, the company was building only 75 silos a summer. Instead of buying a new silo or having a used one moved and rebuilt, farmers took to storing their silage in huge bunkers at a fraction of a silo's cost, Throop said.

Stubbs' sole business is ripping silos down, trucking them sometimes across the state, then putting them back together again.

Throop and Stubbs refuse to predict doom for the silo business, perhaps because they've lived it all their lives. They say there'll always be a living in carting one man's silo across the state to another man's land, in waterproofing a silo or fixing a roof.

Getty tax man hired

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Attorney Kenneth R. Thomas wa selected in an open court lottery Friday to oversee inheritance tax preparation for the J. Paul Getty state.

The names of Thomas and 27 other inheritance tax referees regularly assigned to Superior Court were placed in an orange box and an assistant county clerk made th selection under the supervision of Judge Neil Lak.

Thomas wil receive $5,000 to overse the Getty holdings. A bil recently passed by the legislature limits to that amount what referees can receive. Until then, referes were paid a percentage o the tax assessed for their fee. Under that system, Tomas could have made up o $3 million for handling te Getty estate, estimaed at $640 million.

JOHNNY WONDER

If you look up at the sky long enough on a dark, clear night, you may see the fiery streak of a "shooting star" flash across the sky.

While "shooting star" may be a pretty name, it is not accurate, for real stars are great glowing balls of gases far out in space.

The "shooting stars" that streak across the sky are bits of rock and metal called meteors. Many billions of meteors zip around through space.

Many of them come so close that they are captured by earth's gravity, and are pulled toward earth. As the speeding meteors hurtle into the earth's atmosphere, friction with the air causes them to glow white hot. Then we see them as blazing trails of light.

Meteors rarely blaze for more than a few seconds. Most of those we see were originally no bigger than a grain of rice. They usually burn up before they reach the ground.

Meteors that survive their fall and land on earth are called meteorites.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

'Madison Avenue is not ready for it'

Accent a handicap

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The television and advertising worlds are filled with invisible barriers. Ricardo Montalban has broken one, and he hopes to break another.

Some of those long-standing barriers have been shattered in recent years as blacks, orientals and other minorities have been integrated into commercials and casts of TV shows like "Chico and the Man," the prejudice against accents remained.

"Advertisers would use accents on rare occasions, perhaps a Frenchman to sell wines, a Swedish girl for aftershave lotion," Montalban observed. "But it was unthinkable to use an accent to advertise a 100 per cent American product."

Although he attended Fairfax High School here and has spent most of his adult life in the United States, his speech still bears evidence of his native Mexico (his parents were born in Spain). He admitted that he might have eradicated the accent with voice training during his years as an MGM contract player. A believer in roots and tradition, he declined.

"Yes, the accent has hampered my career in films," he remarked. "In Hollywood they write scripts to star American types."

Yet for 30 years he has earned a good living for himself, wife Georgiana and their four children, now grown. Not only in films and television; he has toured in such stage attractions as "The King and I" and "Don Juan in Hell." The one medium he could not break into was the lucrative field of TV commercials.

"I did a few spots here and there, and in Canada I was spokesman for Maxwell House Coffee, both in English and French," he said. "But I lost that because the French actors union won't allow the use of American actors."

The situation changed two years ago when the Chrysler Corp. chose Montalban to introduce its Cordoba line. The casting was natural, and the motif is carried through with the background of a Spanish mansion and music of a soft guitar.

"I opened a tiny door that used to be closed," said Montalban. "Now Sergio Franchi and others have followed."

Montalban has come close to starring in a series but has never made it. He starred in a pilot film about the early California desperado Joaquin Murietta; it failed "because the guest star, Earl Holliman, had a more flamboyant role." Next he was cast with Elizabeth Ashley in a Quinn Martin series about San Francisco detectives; "The Streets of San Francisco" was sold instead.

"I did four shows of 'McNaughton's Daughter,' playing an attorney with Susan Clark," the actor recalled. "But then 'Kate McShane,' also about a woman attorney, was a failure and the network got scared."

He added: "Right now the networks insist on a hero with no accent. An actor with an accent can be a guest star or a sidekick, not a hero.

"I think that's a very shortsighted view. Consider how many Americans do have accents. I think the public will accept a series star who doesn't speak pure American. But Madison Avenue is not ready for it."

His own commercials have provided new impetus for his career. He can feel it in the number of scripts submitted and in the reaction when he appears in public.

"This summer I did a play, 'Accent on Youth,' in Ohio," he said. "After the show it's customary for the star to sign autographs and greet the patrons for an hour. Invariably 6 out of 10 would make some comment like, 'We love your commercials.'"

Chamber ensemble at UCLA

The London Sinfonietta, prestigious British chamber music ensemble now on world tour, will present concerts in Royce Hall at UCLA at 8:30 p.m. Oct. 19 and 21.

On Oct. 19, the group will perform "Ut Heremita Solus" by Birtwistle; "Three Pieces for Clarinet" by Stravinsky; "Quattro Fantasie" by Henze; "Alma Redemptoris Mater" by Maxwell Davies; "Elegy for Solo Viola" by Stravinsky; and "Chamber Concerto" by Ligeti.

On Oct. 21, the ensemble will present Notturno No. 5 in C by Haydn; "Syrinx" by Debussy and Suite from "Soldier's Tale" by Stravinsky.

Both performances are conducted by David Atherton.

Since its founding in 1968, the London Sinfonietta has appeared at music festivals in many parts of the world. Some of the world's leading composers, including Berio, Boulez and Stockhausen, have written pieces especially for the group.

The London Sinfonietta's many recordings include the complete instrumental and chamber ensemble works of Schoenberg.

Merit Cigarette Sets New Taste Standard.

'Enriched Flavor'™ breakthrough brings unprecedented taste to low tar smoking.

Today there's a way to get real taste from a cigarette without high tar.

That's the report on a new taste discovery called 'Enriched Flavor.' A way to pack flavor—extra flavor—into tobacco without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

The cigarette packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco is remarkable new MERIT.

If you smoke, you'll be interested.

Tests Verify Taste

In tests involving thousands of smokers of filter cigarettes, the majority reported MERIT delivered more taste than five current leading low tar cigarettes having all the way up to 60% more tar.

Repeat: delivered more taste.

In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, MERIT MENTHOL was reported to deliver as much—or more—taste than the higher tar brands tested.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough.

Now smoke the cigarette. MERIT.

Unprecedented flavor at 9 mg. tar.

One of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.

Rams win the game but lose battle

A SIMPSON STEAL

Rams' safetyman Bill Simpson leaps high to pick off a Craig Morton pass intended for the Giants' Walker Gillette in Sunday's action at the Coliseum. Rams' cornerback Rod Perry is at left. Rams spotted New York 10 points but roared back to win, 24-10.

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — The Giants couldn't beat the Rams, so they beat them up instead.

The Rams won the game, 24-10, but lost the battle. Linebacker Rick Kay went down first with a knee injury. Next, a hamstring injury took Merlin Olsen out.

Kay, the left linebacker, tore ligaments in his left knee and was to undergo surgery today at Centinella Valley Hospital. He is out for the season.

Olsen, the massive, 6-5, 270-pound defensive tackle, has either a "tear or partial tear of the left hamstring or cover tissue" according to Dr. Robert Kerlan and the "treatment for either is the same."

Dr. Kerlan was very guarded in his statement and how long Olsen will be out is a mystery. Kerlan said he might be able to play next Sunday against the Miami Dolphins.

But "Oley" is 35 and how fast he can heal or how effective he can be has to be extremely uncertain.

Joining Olsen and Kay on the sidelines in later stages of the game were strong safety Dave Elmendorf (knee), left cornerback Rod Perry (knee) and defensive end Jack Youngblood (knee).

There were so many ice bags in use after the game that the Rams dressing room looked like the inside of a cocktail shaker.

However, the injuries to Youngblood, Elmendorf and Perry are of a lesser nature than Kay's. Like Olsen, they may or may not play in Miami.

"We'll just have to see how things go during the week," was all Kerlan would say.

Whatever, the Rams are bruised and battered. If the Giants were tough (and they were), the Dolphins surely will not be any easier.

Against the Giants, the Rams got off to a sluggish start. Coach Chuck Knox feared an emotional letdown after last week's big game at Minnesota. Like Jobe, his fears were realized.

The New Yorkers had their 10 points before the Rams could get on the scoreboard. It was 10-0 after one quarter, 10-7 at the half and 10-10 after three quarters.

"We might have been a little stale at the beginning," admitted fullback John Cappelletti. "We didn't push as hard as we could have. I guess we woke up at the half."

On a warm (70 degrees) and humid (80 per cent) afternoon, Cappelletti was the Rams' best ground gainer.

The 6-2, 216-pound former Heisman Trophy winner netted 85 yards on 19 carries and scored two touchdowns. The first came on a 10-yard run. The second on a 32-yard pass reception and run.

"You didn't do much before this year," said a New York writer. "What are you doing different?"

"Starting," shot back Cappelletti.

Lawrence McCutcheon also carried the ball 19 times and gained 73 yards. It was the first time in three games in the regular season that Knox's "backfield boomers" had been held under 100 yards apiece.

The Rams other points came on a 44-yard field goal by Tom Dempsey and a one-yard touchdown wiggle by Jim Bertelsen.

Bertelsen's TD came on only his third carry of the season. Two of them resulted in touchdowns. He subsequently handled the ball three more times to give him six carries in three games.

"The coaches make the decisions," shrugged an obviously downcast Bertelsen. "Cappy (Cappelletti) has been playing real well."

James Harris, making his first start at quarterback after missing three games because of a fractured thumb, was a bit rusty at the start.

The big signal caller had one pass intercepted which set up the Giants' touchdown. He was lucky to escape having two others picked off.

But he got going and finished with 14 completions in 23 attempts with just the one interception. The aerials netted 170 yards and a touchdown.

"I got good protection today," Harris said. "At first I had to get my rhythm back. But after that things seemed pretty normal."

Questioned about a story in the Los Angeles Times in which Harris was quoted as charging that he wasn't accepted by the press because of being black and that there is still a lot of prejudice, the 6-4, 210-pound quarterback put the blame for the story back on the media.

"I didn't quite say the things the way they were written," he charged. "I said I was getting an unfair press, but I didn't say it was because I was black. And I didn't say that (Pat) Haden and (Ron) Jaworski got more or better publicity because they are white.

"I didn't mean for the article to be written around a racial tone," he concluded.

At least the Rams won. The press can't.

RAMblings — The Ram defense didn't get it's first sack until 3:20 into the fourth quarter. Then it got four by Fred Dryer, Youngblood, Larry Brooks, and Mike Fanning.

There were also four Ram interceptions (Bill Simpson, Isiah Robertson, Rob Perry and Steve Preece) and three Giants fumbles.

Larry Czonka, who went into the game averaging only 3.4 yards a carry, was held to a 2.7 average (32 yards in 12 carries). Doug Kotar was the game's leading rusher with 108 yards in 19 carries (5.7 average).

Ali promises early ending

NEW YORK (AP) — "It shall not go five."

Muhammad Ali talking.

The subject: Ali's Tuesday night heavyweight championship title defense against Ken Norton.

Both fighters rested today — their positions stated:

Ali has predicted he will be a winner before the fight at Yankee Stadium enters the sixth round.

Norton, only one of two men to beat Ali, has said he doesn't know when he will win but "I will make him quit.'

"I made you sucker. I'm going to destroy you," Ali said Sunday at a final workout. He was talking to Bundini Brown, drafted to play the role of Norton as Ali staged a dressing rehearsal of how it will be when he meets Norton in the center of the ring before the opening bell rings Tuesday night.

"I picture the crowd roaring," said Ali. "I picture the foxes (girls) in the front row. I picture Norton in the ring ... scared."

Ali is the 8-5 favorite to win his third fight with Norton and keep the title and a date with the man who would be his next "big-money" opponent—George Foreman.

Norton outpointed Ali and broke his jaw in winning a split 12-round decision March 31 1973. In a rematch Sept. 10, 1973, Ali won a split 12-round diecison by taking the final round.

"You must remember, those first two fights weren't for the championship said Ali, who closes his final workout with a familiar spiel shouted from the balcony of Bobby Gleason's Gym in midtown Mahattan:

"Don't forget to buy tickets."

The weather forecast was for no rain for the first fight in Yankee Stadium since Ingemar Johansson knocked out Floyd Patterson June 26, 1959. The last outdoor heavyweight championship fight in the United States was Sonny Liston's—Ali first won the title from Liston in 1964—one-round knockout over Floyd Patterson Sept. 25, 1962 at Comiskey Park in Chicago.

For his bringing big-time outdoor fighting back to the U.S. for Madison Square Garden, Inc., and Top Rank, Inc., Ali is guaranteed $6 million plus $100,000 in expenses. This is thought to be his biggest purse—he was guaranteed $4.5 million plus a percentage for his winning third fight against Joe Frazier in Manila last Oct. 1.

Ali also will receive 50 percent of all revenue after $9 million from the fight which will be seen on closed circuit television across the United States and Canada and which will be seen live or delayed in 57 other countries. Norton is guaranteed $1 million plus $100,000 and five per cent of all revenue from the start.

John F.X. Condon, head publicist for the Garden, exepects 40,000 people to see the fight in Yankee Stadium and 500 million worldwide.

Phils clinch flag

By The Associated Press

"We're only one third of the way there, but it's a big step," says Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark. "I feel we've got the best club in baseball."

Ozark's club took the first step towards backing up that contention Sunday by clinching the National League's East Division title with a 4-1 triumph over Montreal in the first game of a doubleheader. After a between-games champagne party, the Phils came back to complete the sweep with a 2-1 victory in the second game, shortened to seven innings by rain.

The Phils will meet the defending champion Cincinnati Reds for the National League crown in the best-of-five playoffs. Should they survive that test, they would meet the American League representative in the World Series.

"We've got pitching on this club. We can hit. We've got some speed, experience and maturity," said Jim Lonborg, who pitched a four-hitter in the clinching victory to raise his record to 17-10. "You've got to have all those things in order to be champions.

"Today, we're champions."

Elsewhere in the National League, the New York Mets edged the Chicago Cubs 2-1, the Atlanta Braves routed the San Diego Padres 10-4, the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-2, the Los Angeles Dodgers nipped the Cincinnati Reds 2-1 and the San Francisco Giants defeated the Houston Astros 5-1.

Phils Manager Danny Ozark, wiping champagne from his eyes during the between-games celebration, said he never doubted his club would win its division.

"Whatever I said last November still stands today," declared Ozark. "I never felt we would let up. I've been confident all season long that we were going to win it.

"We've got the best club in baseball."

Greg Luzinski's three-run homer off Montreal starter Dan Warthen, 2-9, in the sixth inning was the decisive blow as Philadelphia mathematically eliminated Pittsburgh to win its first title since 1950, when the "Whiz Kids" took the National League pennant on the last day of the season. The Phils' only other pennant year was 1915.

Dave Cash led off the sixth with a walk and Jerry Martin followed with a single. After Mike Schmidt lined out, Luzinski slammed a 1-0 pitch into the bleachers in left-center for his 21st home run of the season and his first since Aug. 26.

"He gave me a fastball," said Luzinski, "and there was no doubt in my mind the minute I hit it it was gone. The pitcher gave me a straight changeup on the pitch before that and I was just sitting on a fastball. I hit it good, no question about that."

The Expos got their only run with two out in the bottom of the sixth when Wayne Garrett walked and Andre Dawson doubled. The Phils made it 4-1 in the seventh when Gary Maddox drew a leadoff walk, stole second and scored on Lonborg's single.

It was the eighth complete game of the season for Lonborg, who struck out five and walked one.

The Phils erased an early 1-0 deficit in the nightcap on runscoring singles by Jay Johnstone in the third inning and Tim Blackwell in the sixth.

Kansas City might be in the driver's seat, but the Oakland A's have a big say in which direction the Royals are heading.

The Royals lead Oakland by 4½ games in the American League West Division—the only division race not yet settled. And Kansas City opens a three-game series at Oakland tonight.

"We're in the driver's seat, but we've got to win some of them," said Kansas City's Hal McRae following the Royals' 3-1 loss to the Texas Rangers Sunday. "It's been that way since the All-Star break when we were 12 games up."

One Kansas City victory at Oakland would sew up at least a tie for the Royals, whose "magic number" is three—any combination of Kansas City victories or Oakland defeats adding up to three.

"We've got to start hitting," said Royals Manager Whitey Herzog.

"I've never seen anything like this. They (the Royals) look afraid to hit the ball, scared they are going to win a game. I'll be honest. I don't see how we're ever going to win another game."

Texas starter Nelson Briles, 11-9, held the Royals to just three hits through the first eight innings. But John Mayberry led off the Kansas City ninth with a single, bringing on reliever Mike Bacsik. Al Cowens singled and Jamie Quirk walked to load the bases.

After Bob Stinson's ground out scored Mayberry, Craig Skok relieved and walked Jim Wofford to load the bases again. But Steve Hargan—the Rangers' fourth pitcher of the inning—came on to get Amos Otis to fly to right, ending the game.

Garvey nears batting goal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — At the start of the month even Steve Garvey knew it would take an extraordinary effort for him to reach 200 hits for the third stralght year.

But today, with six games remaining, he is within five of that plateau, something no Los Angeles — or Brooklyn — Dodger ever accomplished three years in a row.

"I knew it would take a good September," said Garvey who had two hits Sunday in the Dodgers' 2-1 victory over Cincinnati. "But I hadn't had a hot streak all year so I'm due."

Garvey started September needing 43 hits in the Dodgers' final 32 games for his third successive 200-hit season. During September he has batted .396 (38-for-96).

Garvey's first hit Sunday eventually led to the decisive run, enabling Doug Rau to post his 16th victory, a career high, as well as lower his earned run verage .254, second only to New York's Tom Seaver who is at 2.47.

Charlie Hough preserved Rau's victory with his 17th save, five more than he managed in all of his five previous seasons with Los Angeles.

The Dodgers also defeated Cincinnati rookie righthander Pat Zachry for the first time in 1976. Zachry was 5-0 against the Dodgers and was seeking to become the first pitcher in Los Angeles history to eat the Dodgers six times in a season.

Bill Buckner doubled home rookie Kevin Pasley with the Dodgers' first run in the third inning. It marked Buckner's 190th hit of the year.

Los Angeles made it 2-0 an inning later when Garvey singled, stole second, took third on an infield out and came home on a tapper in front of the plate by John Hale.

Draw doesn't awe Brian Gottfried

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Brian Gottfried says he never looks at the draw sheet when he arrives at a tennis tournament.

"I just concern myself with each match as it comes," said Gottfried Sunday after becoming the Cinderella story of the $125,000 Pacific Southwest Open at UCLA's Pauley Pavilion.

Had he looked at the draw last Monday, he could easily have speculated that he would have to beat Eddie Dibbs, Jimmy Connors and Ilie Nastase to get to the finals of this tournament.

And that's exactly where he finds himself after playing a brilliant match against Nastase in the semifinals, winning 2-6, 6-4, 7-5.

He had earlier whipped Dibbs 6-3, 6-1 and gotten past Connors when the tournament's top seed had to default near the end of the first set.

Gottfried will now face Arthur Ashe, a 6-3, 6-3 winner over Mexico's Raul Ramirez in the other semifinal. They'll play for the $20,000 first prize this evening.

"I feel I've played well the last four months," said the 24-year-old Gottfried. "The biggest difference in my game is my improved confidence. I've come close to winning a lot of matches so I knew I could do it. It was just a matter of my confidence."

And it was confidence that Gottfried needed against Nastase in the final set where they were seven service breaks in a roller-coaster display of tennis, probably the best in this seven-day long tournament.

Down a break, Nastase fought back with another break to deadlock the score at 5-5. Gottfried was equal to the challenge and recorded another break.

He then rallied from love-forty on his own serve to win the match when Nastase missed a volley at the net.

"I think there were so many breaks in the final set because we each wanted to win so much," Gottfried said. "When one guy would break, the other guy would dig in a little more.

"I stayed back a little more and was patient. I felt I hit good approach shots, which you must against Nastase because he is so quick."

Nastase, seeded third, was involved with little controversy throughout his five matches. He was polite and quick to give Gottfried credit after the match.

"If you give him a little chance, he can beat you," Nastase said of the 10th-seeded Gottfried. "I like to play close matches, but I like to win. I had a good tournament and the crowd was good today. I just lose, no excuse."

Donna Young takes a big check

CALABASAS, Calif. (AP) — If money's the yardstick for professional sports, then women's golf in the United States has come of age, and Donna Caponi Young has one word for it: "Dynamite."

Mrs. Young pocketed a sizeable chunk of the Ladies' Professional Golf Association's 1976 prize money Sunday, taking home $35,000 for winning the $205,000 Carlton, the richest tournament in women's golfing history.

She'd won $6,000 the weekend before for her triumph in the Portland Classic, and her earnings this year are nearly $80,000. As the winner of the Carlton, she'll receive some additional prize money in a couple of weeks since a percentage of the gate — estimated at around $5,000 — will finally be determined and added to her $35,000 prize.

When told what her 1976 prize money was, Mrs. Young shook her head in disbelief.

"I remember a couple of years ago, I ranked third on the money list and didn't make $35,000." The purse on the LPGA tour this year almost doubled from 1975, rising to $2 million. Ray Volpe, the LPGA commissioner, said the total next year is expected to top $3 million.

Mrs. Young, playing her home course of Calabasas Park Country Club, made it look easy. She had an opening round 69, one stroke off the lead, then moved ahead to stay on the second day of the tournament.

She had a pair of 72s the final two days of play over the 6,136-yard, par 72 course, and was never really threatened as she won by five strokes at 282.

Judy Rankin, who earlier this year became the first woman golfer to win more than $100,000 in a year, picked up $19,300 for a share of second to run her 1976 bankroll to nearly $140,000.

Sharing second with Mrs. Rankin at 287 was Jane Blalock, who battled back from an opening round 77 to fire a 69 the final day.

Pat Bradley and Kathy Martin picked up $9,750 each for finishing fourth, six strokes off the lead at 288.

Mrs. Young said before the tournament started that she didn't play Calabasas "seriously," so she didn't think she had a home course advantage.

But she smiled Sunday when asked if she'd had anything to do with the Carlton being played at Calabasas.

"They were talking about having a big tournament in Los Angeles, and Ray Volps asked me if I knew of a good course.

"I said I knew the perfect place."

Kings like 2 rookies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Kings Coach Bob Pulford is particularly pleased with his rookies after two games in the newly opened National Hockey League exhibition season.

The Kings rallied in the third period Saturday night to earn a 3-3 tie with the Vancouver Canucks at the Forum.

It was the Kings second tie in as many pre-season contests.

Rookie Steve Clippingdale and Bert Wilson scored last period goals to give Los Angeles the tie. Don Lever and Dennis Ververgaert had scored for the Canucks against rookie Mario Lessard in the second stanza.

The Kings had a chance to win when they had a two-man advantage for the last 95 seconds, but couldn't get the puck past Curt Ridley.

Don Moores' goal midway through the second period was Los Angeles' fifth goal of the pre-season and third scored by a rookie.

J.C. Snead wins Kaiser

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — "I don't think I want to be a superstar," J.C. Snead said after he'd denied Johnny Miller a third consecutive victory in the Kaiser International Open Golf Tournament.

"I don't think I could stand it," said the big, easy-going nephew of the legendary Sam Snead. He'd just fashioned a solid, four-under-par 68 for a two-stroke victory over Miller. It was the second title of the season for J.C. and lifted him to fifth place on the season's money-winning list at $191,807.

"I used to worry about it some. You know, about keeping the Snead name going for a little longer. And I'd get ticked off when I see all these other guys with their pictures on the front of magazines and in the papers.

"And, you know, I'm hardly ever listed, not even among the fairly decent players. I know I'm not very charismic. People don't follow me around. But I was trained that way. I was a good athlete in high school. Good in lots of sports. If I'd made a basket in basketball and started jumping up and down and patting myself on the back and saying, 'Hey, look how good I am,' the coach would have hit me up alongside the head.

"But I still used to worry about it. I've won some tournaments. My stroke average isn't that bad. I've been on the last three Ryder Cup teams. I've won more than $700,000 in five years. That's not bad for a guy who didn't start playing golf until he was 22.

"But I don't want to be a superstar now. Leonard Thompson and I had dinner with Arnold Palmer a few weeks ago. He couldn't eat for people coming over and talking to him and asking for his autograph and everything. And they'd ask him the stupidest question. Really stupid. And Lee Trevino. He's a good friend of mine. He can't even go out to dinner. Never does. His food would get cold. He don't do anything but have hamburgers in his room.

"I don't think I want that."

And Miller was equally philosophic after a double-bogey six on the sixth hole had killed his chances for a third consecutive title on the course where he has built his home.

"I'm almost glad to finish second," said Miller, who shot a final round 69. Snead finished with a 274 total, 14 under par, while Miller and Gibby Gilbert shared second at 274.

"I don't usually do that," Johnny said. "I either finish first or down the road somewhere, 31st or something like that. That's not like some guys, like Hale Irwin. They're in the top 10 every week. Maybe it shows I'm getting more consistent. I'm happy with my performance."

Miller Barber was fourth alone with a 71-277, followed by Don Massengale, Jack Ewing and Lyn Lott. Massengale had a 67, Ewing 68 and Lott 72.

Tanana enjoys his 18th win

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Twins may own the highest team batting average in the American League, but they're no problem for Frank Tanana.

"It's tough for me to lose with four runs," said Tanana, 18-10 after he whipped the Twins 4-1 Sunday. "Our team has gotten me three, four or five runs every time we played against Minnesota this year."

That's three times to be exact and Twins' skipper Gene Mauch is glad he doesn't have to worry about the Angel lefty again this year.

"If he was playing with a team that hit better, he could win 20, 25 games easily," said Mauch.

Tanana lost his bid for a shutout in the ninth inning when Minnesota's Craig Kusick belted his 11th home run of the season.

"I've had some luck against Tanana," said Kusick. "I know he struck me out the first three times I faced him this year. Pitchers are funny, they can get you out nine of ten times, but they get upset about that 10th time."

Tanana's eight-hitter snapped Minnesota's five-game winning streak.

The Twins' Dave Goltz fired a two-hitter to blank the Angels 6-0 Saturday to offset another record-performance by Nolan Ryan. Goltz, who squared his season mark at 14-14, allowed a pair of singles and picked up his fourth shutout of the season. Dan Ford smashed his 20th homer of the year and also singled in a run to boost his season RBI total to 86 for the Twins, who lead the American League with a .275 batting average.

Ryan, 15-18, fanned 11 in seven innings to run his season total to 302 and become the first pitcher to surpass the 300 level in four different seasons.

The Twins did manage to establish a team record Sunday with a pair of double plays to boost their season total to 178— tops in the A.L.

Dave Collins and Ron Jackson belted solo homers off Minnesota starter Jim Hughes, 8-14. Mike Miley and Bruce Bochte also doubled in runs for the Angels.

The Ice Pick.* Cool and quick.

We've always known that Smirnoff and iced tea, or the Ice Pick as we call it, was a tempting drink combination. In fact on one occasion we recommended it.

But now that Lipton has made iced tea totally fuss-proof, with their tasty lemony brew ready to pour from the can, we'd say the Ice Pick's time has really come.

In our enthusiasm for this delicious drink let's remember that we're sipping Smirnoff along with iced tea. Even though an Ice Pick is quick to make, please...take it slowly.

*To make an Ice Pick pour an ounce or so of Smirnoff into a tall glass with ice and fill with Lipton iced tea from a can.

Smirnoff leaves you breathless.®

Yarborough nears title

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — It became obvious early in the Grand National stock car season that Cale Yarborough and the Junior Johnson crew were doing some major fiddling around with the team's Chevrolets.

For one thing, the cars didn't sound right. Instead of that deep, vibrating, unmuffled roar, they had a high-pitched whine. That was from a new 180-degree exhaust system.

But there were things inside and underneath that didn't show—things that some of the other teams would dearly love to see now that Yarborough is on his way to winning his first national driving championship.

"I really think we turned the corner after Daytona (in February) when we solved our engine problem," Yarborough explained after winning Sunday's rain-shortened Dominion 500. "Now that we have the car handling so good, things are really falling into place."

So much so that Yarborough has now won eight of 25 races this season and four of the last five.

"We still don't have all the horsepower that we need to beat (David) Pearson on the big speedways," said Herb Nab, Yarborough's wrench man.

But on short tracks like Martinsville Speedway's long, skinny half-mile oval, Yarborough doesn't just win—he obliterates the competition.

Here Sunday, Yarborough had a lap on everyone except pole winner Darrell Waltrip when the rain mercifully ended the race after 340 of the 500 laps.

"We had a lot of problems," Yarborough said. "We did, really. I got into it with Darrell about the eighth lap, hit the curb and knocked the front end out an inch and a half."

He admitted, though, "The car was still working good. It had to be going good knocked that far out of line."

The major drawback to the alignment problem was that Yarborough could only run one certain lane on the track at full speed.

If someone with enough power could hold Yarborough at bay down the straightaways, like Bobby Allison, smart driving could block him through the corners.

"Here I couldn't run but one groove and he wouldn't get out of it," Yarborough said of Allison's nifty driving display to avoid getting lapped. "I feel like if you're getting lapped on the race track you should move over."

Sports news in brief

ROME — John Newcombe and Adriano Panatta were tied at one set apiece and 2-2 in the third when darkness halted their 1976 Davis Cup tennis semifinal match with Australia and Italy tied at 2-all in the best-of-five series.

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. — Sweden's Sven Davidson defeated Beppe Merlo of Italy 1-6, 7-5, 6-3 to win the $7,500 first prize in the 45-singles division of the Almaden Vineyards Senior Tennis Championships.

KUMAMOTO, Japan — Seiichi Kanai sank a par putt on the third extra hole and captured the 1976 Japan PGA championship in a four-way sudden-death playoff.

SHIZUOKA, Japan — Hisako Higuchi shot a one-over-par 74 and won the 1976 Japan Ladies Open golf tournament by two strokes with a 220 for 54 holes.

HAMPTON, Ga. — Pole-sitter L.D. Ottinger held off the challenge by Neil Bonnett and raced to a two-length victory in the Southern Sportsman 300 auto race.

PRAGUE — Helena Fibingerova of Czechoslovakia bettered the women's world shot put record by four inches with a toss of 72 feet, 1¾ inches.

It was Missouri's best

By Associated Press

"This was the greatest football game a Missouri team ever has played," said Al Onofrio.

"Nuts!" said Woody Hayes.

Woody wasn't disputing Onofrio. It was just that the scoreboard said 22 points for Al's Missouri Tigers and 21 for Woody's Ohio State Buckeyes when sub quarterback Pete Woods tossed a two-yard touchdown pass to Leo Lewis with 12 seconds left and then ran across for the decisive two-point conversion after a penalty gave Missouri a second chance.

The comeuppance of the second-ranked Buckeyes highlighted another wave of upsets for the second time in three weeks and four other members of The Associated Press Top Twenty also went down to defeat.

Houston continued to make the most of its initial season in the Southwest Conference race. The Cougars, 49-14 losers to Florida in a non-conference game a week ago, knocked off ninth-ranked Texas A&M 21-10 and took over undisputed possession of the top rung in the SWC.

Penn State, like Missouri, went for two points in the final period but a pass fell incomplete and the 11th-ranked Nittany Lions bowed to unheralded Iowa 7-6. Arkansas, ranked 12th, dropped a 9-3 battle of field goals to Tulsa while No. 14 Illinois followed last week's upset of Missouri with a 34-19 loss to Baylor.

Meanwhile, top-rated Michigan smashed Navy 70-14, third-ranked Pitt held off Temple 21-17, No. 4 Oklahoma downed Florida State 24-9, fifth-ranked UCLA drubbed Air Force 40-7, sixth-ranked Nebraska crushed Texas Christian 64-10, No. 7 Georgia turned back South Carolina 20-12 and eighth-ranked Maryland beat Syracuse 42-28. Kansas, No. 10, was idle.

Back in the Second Ten, No. 13 Alabama trounced Vanderbilt 42-14, No. 15 Louisiana State zapped Rice 31-0, No. 16 North Carolina outlasted Army 34-32, No. 17 Mississippi blanked Southern Mississippi 28-0, No. 18 Boston College trimmed Tulane 27-3, No. 19 Southern California trounced Purdue 31-13 and No. 20 Texas Tech nosed out New Mexico 20-16.

Missouri's Woods, filling in for the injured Steve Pisarkiewicz, fired a 31-yard scoring pass to Joe Stewart in the second quarter but Ohio State's Pete Johnson scored three times on two-yard bursts to give the Buckeyes a 21-7 halftime lead.

Curt Brown's four-yard run in the third period made it 21-14 and Brown raced 31 yards to the Ohio State nine to set up Missouri's final TD.

Woods then overthrew Lewis in the end zone but Ohio State was caught holding, giving Missouri another shot. This time, Woods ran it in.

"I was quite relieved when I was given a second chance for the extra points," he said. "I just saw daylight and got hit before I got to the goal. I was lucky enough to get in."

The trigger-tempered Hayes was subdued but showed up for post-game questioning. He exploded when newsmen kept harping on the critical penalty.

"You just want me to say something about that penalty," he snorted as he stalked from the room. "You just want me to make an alibi. Well, nuts! Nuts!"

Danny Davis was the triggerman in Houston's upset of Texas A&M, drilling first-half scoring passes of 32 and 18 yards to Eddie Foster and a 50-yarder to Robert Lavergne.

Iowa took the lead against Penn State on a two-yard first-period touchdown by freshman Tom Renn and Nick Quartaro's conversion and blanked the losers until only nine minutes remained.

Arkansas' Steve Little kicked a Southwest Conference record 61-yard field goal but Tulsa freshman Steve Cox offset that with boots of 39, 28 and 40 yards. Cleveland Franklin scored four times on short runs as Baylor stunned Illinois.

Rick Leach scored two touchdowns and threw for two more as Michigan rolled up its highest point total in 37 years in routing Navy.

Pitt spotted Temple an early touchdown, then came from behind on two field goals and short touchdown runs by Elliott Walker and Tony Dorsett. Scoring runs of 37 and 23 yards by Horace Ivory helped Oklahoma defeat Florida State.

UCLA's Wendell Tyler rushed for 156 yards against Air Force and upped his career total to a school record 2,519. Vince Ferragamo tied the Nebraska record by throwing four touchdown passes against TCU.

Computer crimes showing increase

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Jones had a problem. He wanted to take out a bank loan but his credit wasn't good enough. But John also had a friend, and for $500 the friend was able to have John's computerized credit file "cleaned" so that the loan was approved.

Bill Smith wanted an American Express card but, alas, he too had a bad credit rating. But for $300, Bill was able to dramatically improve his credit rating and get the card of his dreams — and with it a few other things.

John and Bill (not their real names) are identified in a federal grand jury indictment of six Orange County men who, authorities say, solicited bad credit risks and offered to transform them into good credit risks for a fee — presumably payable in cash. The indictment says the alleged credit-fraud ring operated with the aid of a clerk at TRW Credit Data in Anaheim, the country's biggest consumer credit bureau with computerized records on more than 50 million Americans.

The case, which comes to trial here Tuesday, is the latest example of what authorities say is a steadily increasing problem — computer crime. The most celebrated case, which also occurred here, was that of Equity Funding, in which company executives showed year after year of climbing profits by "creating" 64,000 bogus life insurance customers on a computer.

"Equity Funding could not have occurred on that massive a scale without the use of computers," says Donn Parker, a senior information processing analyst at Stanford Research Institute who is regarded as the country's leading expert on computer crime. "Secondly, they could not have as successfully hidden that fraud from the auditors without the reliance on computers. Computer systems have essentially destroyed the independence of auditors because they're not able to get to the documents of record without the assistance of other people in between."

Parker says reliable statistics on computer crime are hard to come by, with one big reason being that most of the 430 cases he has studied were uncovered accidentally (an FBI informant led authorities to the alleged TRW ring). But he notes that the U.S. Chamber of Commerce estimates that $40 billion is lost to white collar crime annually and adds, "Willie Sutton used to go after banks, but white collar crime is increasingly focusing on computers because nowadays, that's where the money is."

Parker cites one case in which $14 million worth of gasoline was stolen from a Gulf Oil refinery in Puerto Rico through the use of computers. In another incident, a New York City bank teller stole more than $1.5 million by juggling customer accounts and hiding the loss on falsified computer runs.

"He was only caught by accident," says Parker. "The police raided a bookie joint and found that this $11,000-a-year teller was making $30,000 bets each day."

Organized in January, 1776, under Col. John Haslet, the Delaware Continentals was the only regiment furnished by that colony during the Revolutionary War. Called "the best uniformed and equipped in the army of 1776", its men had blue coats faced and lined with red, white waistcoats, buckskin breeches, white woolen stockings, and back gaiters. Their peaked hats were smaller versions of the British grenadier hats. The World Almanac reveals that the Delaware Continentals, armed with English muskets, were among the few continental troops to have bayonets.

ORDINANCE NO. 302

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WALNUT AMENDING ORDINANCE NO. 301 RELATING TO THE SUSPENSION AND PROHIBITION OF THE PROCESSING, HEARING AND GRANTING OF ZONE CHANGES, CONDITIONAL USE PERMITS, VARIANCES AND SUBDIVISIONS IN ALL RESIDENTIALLY ZONED PROPERTY IN THE CITY OF WALNUT, AND DECLARING SAME AS INTERIM ORDINANCE AND THAT IT SHALL TAKE EFFECT IMMEDIATELY.

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WALNUT DOES ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. Section 1 of Ordinance No. 301 is hereby amended to read as follows:

"Section 1. Suspension and Prohibition. Notwithstanding the provisions of Title VI of the Walnut Municipal Code, Planning and Zoning, the processing and hearing of subdivisions, changes of zone, conditional use permits and variances and the granting thereof are hereby prohibited and suspended in all residentially zoned property in the City of Walnut.

Exemption. The following pending zoning matters are exempt from the provisions of this Ordinance:

1) Those pending subdivisions at the time of the effective date of this Ordinance which have received the required tentative or parcel map approval."

Section 2. Urgency. The City Council hereby finds and determines and declares that the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, safety and welfare necessitate the enactment of this Ordinance. A declaration of the facts constituting its urgency is as follows:

1. That the City Council, Planning Commission and Planning Department are considering and studying and intends to expand on said study and consideration within a reasonable time of the updating of all elements of the General Plan of the City of Walnut.

2. That said study and consideration does vitally affect the intended present and future development of the City.

3. That the granting and approval of subdivisions, zone changes, conditional use permits and variances, prior to the completion of said study and consideration of the General Plan would seriously interfere with, and may be in conflict with the study, hearings and processes of the objectives of the General Plan, and the orderly review and updating thereof, all to the detriment of the public peace, health, and welfare of the citizens of Walnut and it is necessary that this Ordinance take effect immediately upon its adoption pursuant to the Planning and Zoning law of the State of California.

Section 3. Severability. The City Council hereby declares that it would have passed this Ordinance sentence by sentence, paragraph by paragraph, and section by section, and does hereby declare that the provisions of this ordinance are severable, and if, for any reason, any sentence, paragraph, or section of this ordinance shall be held invalid, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining parts of this Ordinance.

Section 4. Effective Immediately. By reason of the foregoing, this Ordinance shall take effect immediately upon its adoption. The City Clerk shall certify to the adoption of this Ordinance and shall cause same to be published as required by law.

ADOPTED AND APPROVED this 22nd day of September, 1976.

William L. Cotten
Mayor

I hereby certify that the foregoing Ordinance, being ordinance No. 302, was adopted by the City Council as an urgency ordinance, at a regular meeting of the Council on September 22, 1976 by the following roll call vote:

AYES: COUNCILMEN: WILLAIMS, COTTEN, HAHN, LAUGHTER
